German Effort To Attack at Pisa Blocked

By The Associated Press

ROME, Aug. 3—The Fifth army has broken German efforts to send counterattacking forces across the Arno river on both sides of besieged Pisa near Italy's west coast, allied headquarters announced today.

The enemy appeared attempting to take the initiative also near the inland wing of the American forces by sending 200 troops to the south bank of the Arno river northeast of Pontedera, but mortar fire dispersed this force.

The Vichy radio asserted today "a large fleet of allied landing craft is now cruising the Tyrrhenian sea" and added there were signs that "a new landing in northern Italy or southern France is imminent."

Eighth army units were making fresh dents in the Nazi defense ring around Florence.

Attacking north from San Michele and LaRomola, Eighth army units captured the commanding heights of La Poggiona, five and one-half miles southwest of the historic art city. New

SOVIET SHELLS NOW FALLING ON NAZI SOIL

Battle for Warsaw Enters Fourth Day; Polish Capital in Flames.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Aug. 3—Fighting raged within three miles of the East Prussian border today as Gen. Ivan Chernyakhovsky's Third White Russian army surged forward in a determined drive from captured Dydvizhe which promised momentarily to carry the war to German soil.

The German radio said that the Russians had established two strong bridgeheads over the broad and swift Vistula river, one 37 miles south of the Polish capital, which was outflanked and besieged from without and within.

Russian armor charged savagely upon German defenses before the East Prussian border cities of Schirwindt, Eydtkuhnen and Wehlkirchen.

Russian cannon shelled German soil.

Chernyakhovsky's forces swirled to within 28 miles of Tilsit and of Insterburg, important East Prussian rail cities. Konigsberg, East Prussian capital and 18th largest German city of 368,433, was 93 miles away. Five railroads meet at Insterburg, site of iron, machine tool and tile factories.

Front dispatches declared fighting raged near Virbalis and Wizainy, both three miles from the frontier.

While the campaign for East Prussia was intensified, the battle for Warsaw entered its fourth day of slow, bitter slugging on a 20-mile front involving the eastern suburbs of the Polish capital.

Nazis Hold Fortifications

The Germans clung to a line of fixed fortifications ringing the burning city and the industrial suburb of Praga, on the east bank of the broad and swift Vistula, against massed bombardment from the ground and sky. (The exiled Polish government in London said 25,000 Polish underground fighters continued a "hard and grim battle against the Germans in the streets of the capital).

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky undoubtedly was attempting to exploit his grip on the east bank of the Vistula for more than 100 miles below Warsaw by seeking a firm bridgehead from which to outflank Warsaw. (The Germans said two bridgeheads had been established in the Deblin area, 60 miles to the southeast and a third in the area 120 miles below the capital).

Behind Russian lines the ten-mile wide corridor thrust to the Baltic sea west of Riga, four Russian army groups gnawed at the trapped thousands of Germans in Latvia and Estonia. (Prime Minister Churchill said from 20 to 30 divisions were cut off, a total of perhaps 200,000 to 300,000 men).

The Russians were 25 miles west of Riga and less than 20 miles to the southwest and closing in on all sides.

Just north of the Carpathians, the Russian capture of Rzeszow and advances beyond placed the Red army within 70 miles of Krakow, fifth city of old Poland.

Marshal Ivan Koven, the tall, broad-shouldered hero of Moscow and Kharkov, sent columns probing at five carpathian passes lead-

U. S. FORCES SPEED 45 MILES IN 2-DAY DASH INTO BRITTANY

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 3—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's armored columns, pressing at burning speed into the heart of Brittany, have captured Rennes after a two-day advance which carried them 45 miles from Avranches.

The Americans were pushing swiftly toward their old World war base of St. Nazaire, 80 miles beyond Rennes which is almost in the center of the Breton peninsula. Other west-bound columns were reported in the outskirts of Dinan, after an advance of 35 miles from Avranches.

Bradley's forces thus had opened a wedge 30 miles deep and 35 miles broad in the heart of Brittany in a series of open-field dashes.

Everywhere along a 120-mile front British and Americans were stabbing with manifold thrusts into the flanks of a seemingly bewildered enemy. Canadian troops struck out with a new attack below Caen which imperiled the whole Nazi defense in western France.

With the allied bag of German prisoners taken since D-day approaching 100,000 Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of allied ground forces in France, told The Associated Press at the front:

"We are hitting the Hun a good crack."

St. Malo, a highly important port across the bay of St. Michel from Normandy, apparently was being bypassed by the rampaging American columns which had turned the corner into Brittany.

Dinan is 13 miles south of St. Malo and 100 miles east of the great port of Brest at Brittany's tip.

Rennes, central communications point of Brittany, is but 80 miles north of Brittany's second port, St. Nazaire, at the mouth of the Loire river, and near the center of the peninsula.

Dinan is 25 miles beyond Pontorson, last officially reported position of the west-bound lancehead.

Lashing out with a new attack, supported by another of the allies' smashing aerial and artillery bombardments which saturated the area of attack with steel and fire, Canadian troops struck in the Tilly-La-Campagne area below Caen.

Nazi Position Endangered

This offensive intensified the danger to German troops holding stubbornly to the granite hills and forest lands which they have turned into a huge anti-tank area as the keystone of their defenses.

It is in this area that British staff officers said yesterday the Germans must stand and fight with the prospect of being destroyed.

The first army of a prospective encirclement—Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's British—was weaving a strong web of steel below the area from the direction of captured Vire and Estry.

And now the Canadians were striking out from the north with the apparent purpose of meeting it.

Rocket-carrying Typhoons laid the whiplash to the confused enemy armor yesterday, sending 18 tanks to flaming destruction, damaging 19 more and destroying or damaging 126 other vehicles.

American fighter bombers over Bradley's columns smashed 32 more German tanks and more than 800 other staff cars, half-tracks, trucks, motorcycles and buses.

In the Roncey-Gavray area, inside a 20 by 16-mile area between Avranches and Vire where at least two German armored divisions were faced with threat of entrapment, the roads were so cluttered with broken German transport that American bulldozers were put into action to clear the highways.

Another British spearhead was driven into the center of the 60-mile pocket below Caen, its tip reaching within 2,000 yards of Auney below Villers-Bocage.

British New Stronghold

The British were at the edge of Villers-Bocage itself, one of the chief German strongholds, and were believed to have turned it into a no-man's land. Attacking by moonlight, the British took five towns before dawn in the Villers-Bocage vicinity.

Vire itself, one of Normandy's prime communications centers, fell under allied control, with British troops in its streets, front dispatches reported. (A British broadcast today said British forces had captured Vire.) An American column driving up from the southwest reached St. Pois, 10 miles away.

This tightened the drawstring on the German rear guard, including the elite second and 116th panzer divisions, withdrawing in the Vire - Tessy - Percy-Villedieu pocket although they may be able to weasel out through the 10-mile gap.

The invasion of France now has rolled into its 59th day with at least 85,000 prisoners among the casualties inflicted on the Germans.

(A Nazi correspondent at the headquarters of Field Marshal Gen. Guenther Von Kluge reported "the situation in the western sector of the invasion front still is critical," a Berlin broadcast said.)

On the Allies' eastern sector British troops attacking by moonlight captured five towns before dawn and are beating at the gates of the Germans' keystone city of Villers-Bocage, which now is believed to be in no-man's land.

Germans Quit Town

The Germans still were defending the town's outer perimeter but were leaving it virtually empty for fear of Allied aerial attack and shelling, a front dispatch said.

Another British column striking in the region south of Villers-Bocage advanced within 2,000 yards of Aunay-Sur-Odon, seizing the village of La Lande to the west and high ground to the north.

The Germans were fighting savagely in the area between Villers-Bocage and Aunay-Sur-

ARMY TO ACT IN STRIKE, RIOT

Officers Arrive in Philadelphia with Transportation Still Paralyzed.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3—Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, commanding general of the Third service command, came here today as the Army made apparent preparations to take over Philadelphia's paralyzed transportation system.

Hayes and other Army officers went into conference with officers of the Philadelphia Transportation Co. after collapse of a union movement to end a bus, trolley and subway work stoppage that slashed war production, caused race violence and stranded thousands.

An army lieutenant, accompanied by a sergeant, with an armful of placards, entered the 69th street elevated train terminal and went directly to the terminal office.

The Philadelphia army public relations section summoned reporters to hear what it said would be an important announcement.

The developments came after War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes referred the stoppage case to President Roosevelt. The war labor board had decided it could not restore operations by conducting conferences.

Upgrading of eight Negro employees to operative jobs on the PTC lines, under a directive of the President's fair employment practice committee, caused the walkout. Clashes between whites and Negroes followed. Windows were smashed and stores looted yesterday.

New Deal Fumbles Post-War Plans, G. O. P. Governors Say

Policy Invites "National Disaster" Executives Declare in Statement at Republican Parley.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3—The 26 Republican governors charged today that the New Deal's handling of war-related problems on the home front invites "national disaster," asserting in a policy statement that "the great problem of peacetime jobs can be adequately met only by private business under an enterprise system."

Continuing work on a 14-point program which presidential nominee Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has indicated will be used as a major campaign document, the governors worked behind closed doors toward the unanimous agreement Dewey has specified is necessary in completing their report.

In a partial recommendation covering six of what the nominee has described as areas of "friction" between local and federal governments, the governors asserted "to allow continuance of the present listlessness, negligence and lack of leadership in Washington is to invite national disaster at the conclusion of either of our two major conflicts."

"The national administration is now standing squarely in the path of future employment of our returning veterans and millions of displaced war workers," the policy statement declared.

It recommended "comprehensive and immediate action by the national government to provide for prompt contract termination and plant clearance."

6 Point Statement

In a six-point statement of policy, the 26 Republican governors said "the states must share leadership to encourage commerce, industry and agriculture in order to stimulate full employment at good wages and the profitable use of all our production facilities," as soon as the war ends.

In other recommendations, the governors said:

1. The acquisition of land by the federal government may result in threatening "seriously the very existence of many of our states and the loss of local self-government to millions of free American citizens."

2. That war veterans be permitted to sit down and talk over future job plans "with someone at home who can tell him where to find all the benefits and services available to him  from federal, state and local governments or through private endeavors."

3. That state governments "should recognize their responsibilities and use their reserves before asking federal aid on state public works.

4. That the present cooperation between federal and state governments in the construction of highways be continued but that federal gasoline and motor vehicle taxes be distributed equitably among the states.

5. That the national guard remain both as a state force and a reserve component of the army of the United States.

6. That surplus war materials be distributed through normal channels of trade in connection with the reconversion program and that such distribution be primarily through state agencies.

The six points covered by the

MAIL PLANE BURNS AFTER HITTING HILL

By The Associated Press

BELLAIRE, O., Aug. 3—A mail plane on a "pick-up" run between Pittsburgh and Huntington, W. Va., crashed and burned near Scott Field at nearby Yorkville today, seriously injuring the pilot and a mechanic.

The ship, a single engine Stinson of the All-American Aviation Corp., Pittsburgh, was destroyed and all but three of its 34 sacks of mail lost, the state highway patrol sub-station at Bridgeport reported.

Capt. G. E. Lindenuth, 38, the pilot, and aviation mechanic Ralph Manaco, 26, both of Pittsburgh, were taken to a Martins Ferry hospital which reported their condition as "fair".

Lindenuth said he dropped off mail at Scott Field, which had none to pickup, and was gaining altitude when his ship struck a hillside tree in fog about 8:30 a. m. and crashed.

Manaco was thrown clear of the plane and Lindenuth was able to crawl away before it caught fire, he added.

A 17-year-old youth, Allen Emery, who lives a half-mile from the accident scene, found the men and took them to the hospital.

Two Pittsburgh-Huntington round trips are operated daily by the mail planes which drop pouches and pick up sacks by a trailing hook device without stopping.

Lima Team Releases Manager "Runt" Marr

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., Aug. 3—Adam Grismer, president of the Lima team of the Ohio State baseball league, announced today that Cliff (Runt) Marr had been relieved of his duties as manager of the club.

Marr had no comment to make and left today for his home at Joplin, Mo.

Jack Norris, who only last week became business manager of the club, took over the managerial duties with Marr's departure. A protracted losing streak dropped the Redbirds to fourth place in the league standing after they had led the loop at the start of the season.

Marion Glider Soldier Killed

Sgt. Carl E. Metz Dies in Action in France, Brother Here Informed.

Word was received yesterday of the death of Sgt. Carl E. Metz, 25, a Marion man, in action with a U. S. glider infantry unit in France July 5. A telegram from the War department at Washington, D. C., notified a brother here, Harold L. Metz of 1053 Davids street, of his death and stated that a letter containing details was to be sent.

A former employe of the Osgood Co. here, Sgt. Metz made his home with his brother and sister-in-law here about two years before entering service in March, 1942. He was sent overseas last year in September, having been home last the preceding April, called home at that time by the death of a sister, Miss Louise Metz.

He received his training at Camp Claiborne, La., and Ft. Bragg, N. C. The family last heard from him last month when a letter written by him July 1 was received July 13.

Born on the Wildcat pike near Meeker Jan. 23, 1919, he was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Delzon Metz. He was graduated from the Montgomery rural school at Meeker in 1938.

Surviving are the father, Delzon Metz of Meeker, and the brother, Harold, here. The mother died in 1927.

ANOTHER GUAM AIRFIELD FALLS

Americans Take Airdrome as 10,000 Japs Are Driven Into Tight Corner.

By The Associated Press

Americans tightening the noose on some 10,000 Japanese pressed into the northern thirds of Guam have seized another airfield, bringing to seven the nest of Marianas dromes from which U. S. aerial might soon may strike into Japan's vitals from the Pacific.

Army and Marine troops, killing seven enemy soldiers for every one they lost, pushed tirelessly forward against rising resistance. But the end of the enemy seemed as sure as on conquered Tinian, where all but a handful of Japanese, hiding in caves, were accounted for.

Tinian's Japanese civilians streamed willingly out of caves to surrender.

33,600 Japs Killed

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced his forces had killed about 33,000 of the enemy on Guam, Tinian and Saipan, against a loss of 3,589 American dead, 17,543 wounded and 1,350 missing.

The captured fighter strip, near Guam's center is within 1,500 miles of the Philippines, the China coast and Japan a distance negotiable by Super-Fortresses.

Gen. MacArthur's forces on New Guinea far to the south turned back two more frenzied Japanese attempts to break free of the allied trap near Aitape. Enemy losses were heavy. On Biak and Noemfoor islands about 100 miles northwestward, 600 more Japanese dead were counted and 300

B-29's Scored Direct Hits on Japanese Mills

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 — The B-29 Super Fortresses which struck the Japanese steel works at Anshan in Manchuria scored direct hits on coke ovens and other factory buildings in an important blow at the enemy's war making capacity, War Secretary Stimson reported today.

Stimson told a news conference the attack was carried out by a "substantial" force of the army's new super bombers, which hit Anshan and Tangku, the port of Tientsin in occupied China, July 29.

"Japan's new industry in stolen Manchuria," the secretary said, "is no safer than Japan's war industry and war machine elsewhere."

The report on the super fortress attack was made in the course of Stimson's review of the past week's observations on all combat fronts, in which he made these observations:

The rapid advance in Normandy in the last nine days "is the most satisfying accomplishment since the successful allied landings on French beaches" and "overshadows even the swift envelopment and liberation of Cherbourg."

Americans have made the most spectacular advance but British and Canadian attacks were timed to follow the American breakthrough, and these allied forces themselves have now broken 17 miles through the German center, despite the fact the Germans considered the British sector of the line the most dangerous to them, and therefore concentrated the bulk of their forces against it.

Soldier Wounded On D-Day Back in U. S.

Sgt. Ralph A. "Jay" Porter, glider infantryman who was seriously wounded in the Allied D-Day invasion on June 8, has arrived in New York and expects to be hospitalized somewhere in Ohio, he told his sister, Mrs. John W. Deyo of 373 Nunin court, in a telephone conversation recently. With other casualties he arrived in New York a week ago last Monday from England.

Sgt. Porter was employed with the Marion Steam Shovel Co. before going into service in March 1942.

Repeal of Food and Admissions Taxes Recommended by Evatt

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3—State Tax Commissioner William S. Evatt recommended today repeal of the sales tax on food and the state admissions tax so that they might be retained as local excises by financially-stricken communities.

He also advocated full distribution of cigaret dealers' license fees to local government, instead of allowing the state 50 per cent as is done now.

In a report to Gov. John W. Bricker on new policies he would like incorporated in Ohio's 1944-45 tax and fiscal program, Evatt estimated the proposed changes would result in an annual loss of revenue to the state of $7,500,000.

He asserted, however, there was no need for the state to preempt fields of revenue "simply because relatively few subdivisions need additional funds which they themselves could raise by the state vacating such fields." He added:

"There is no reason, therefore, why taxpayers in community "A" should continue to pay amusement taxes and taxes on food if neither the state nor community "A" needs any part of this revenue, simply because such taxes should be maintained in community "B" which needs such revenue.

"In this way, instead of traveling still farther along the road to centralization, local governments will be helped to stand on their own financial bottoms and swing away from the practice of coming to some higher level of government for a handout."

Evatt said he "assumed the next legislature will remove the one-cent liquid fuel tax from the general revenue fund and devote it all or in part to highways" and added the general fund could withstand a biennial loss of about

TRUMAN RESIGNS AS COMMITTEE HEAD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—Over the protest of committee colleagues, Chairman Truman (D-Mo) resigned today from the senate war investigating committee.

Simultaneously with Truman's action, Hugh Fulton turned in his resignation as chief counsel of the group.

Truman said both Republicans and Democrats on the committee urged him to remain as chairman at a 40-minute closed meeting this morning but that he told them "it would not be fair to the committee, because everything I would say might be considered as political, in view of my candidacy for the vice presidency."

The Democratic vice presidential nominee made public a letter to Vice President Wallace, as president of the senate, asserting "I do not want even the shadow of suspicion that the committee's activities in any way are determined or influenced by political considerations."

Truman said the committee would meet again tomorrow to choose a new chairman.

WORK STOPPAGE AGREEMENT REACHED

American Malleable Workers To Return to Jobs.

A work stoppage at the plant of the American Malleable Castings Co. that began yesterday at 10:20 a. m. was disposed of in a conference at noon today, with company officials announcing that the men had agreed to go back to work tomorrow morning.

Negotiations were to continue to iron out all details of differences that led to the work stoppage, which halted all shop work most of yesterday and all of today. An AFL union is active at the plant. The dispute was reported to have centered around piece work rates for molders.

new wave of window smashings, which they attributed to Negro youths, as a two-hour move by a small group of PTC employes to restore service on Philadelphia's two subway lines ended in failure.

An official of the Transport Workers Union (CIO), who declined to be quoted by name, said back-to-work appeals to the 6,000 employes had "only a ghost of a chance" to succeed "barring a big break in Washington." Government seizure, he agreed, would be such a break."

Inter-racial clashes stemming from the work stoppage caused hospitalization of at least 15 persons before yesterday's steady rain—called "providential" by one police official—drove wandering bands indoors.

Youths Attack Grocer

In an area where clashes were numerous, five Negroes attacked Morris Miller, 50, in his grocery store, and Miller shot and seriously wounded one of them, Police Superintendent Guy E. Parsons reported.

The rain contributed to a transport snarl that kept 140,000 of the area's 800,000 war workers from their jobs, the war manpower commission reported, and caused a central city business decline estimated by a retail trade spokesman at $1,000,000 a day.

Extra trains on the Pennsylvania railroad and Reading company lines could carry only a fraction of the 150,000 persons who daily ride on PTC trolleys, buses and subway trains, while an oil industry spokesman said motorists granted extra gasoline in the emergency were draining the region's tanks.

At least a dozen draft boards announced they were reclassifying into 1-A a total of more than 500 idle workers, who previously had occupational deferments.

The big Japanese offensive in China rose in fury over a wide area, but Hengyang still held out. The Chinese, besieged for five weeks, threw back 10 enemy attempts to crack into the inner parts of the city. To the northeast, Chungking reported, the enemy made sharp gains, strengthening its eastern anchor of the drive down both sides of the Hankow-Canton railway, the prize at stake.

U. S. planes kept up their furious, ceaseless harassment of the stretched-out Japanese supply lines. Tokyo claimed without confirmation that 113 U. S. aircraft were destroyed in this sector from July 29 to Aug. 1.

British troops quickened pursuit of the Japanese fleeing India via the Tiddim road into Burma. Chinese and Americans, fighting bitterly in the mud and rain of north Burma, dug out more Nipponese defending Myitkyina.

Zealand troops previously had been reported within five miles of the city's outskirts in that area.

West of Florence British and Indian troops crossed the Pesa river on a two-mile bridgehead and advanced one mile, capturing the village of Ginestra, three miles southeast of Montelupo, and threatening the entire west flank of the German line south of the Arno river in that area.

Headquarters received reports from Italian civilians that the Nazis were clearing civilians from stretches of the north bank of the Arno both east and west of Florence. This was viewed as possibly signifying an enemy plan to establish a strong defensive zone fringing Florence on the north side of the river to which a retreat could be made when the present line no longer is tenable.

The Germans meanwhile were having their troubles with Italian patriots.

A proclamation by the Nazi command found posted in the San Ubaldo monastery at Gubbio said that "in the past days criminal elements of the civil population have repeatedly ambushed and shot at German soldiers" and that "by way of punishment for such acts certain villages have been burned down and a number of male inhabitants summarily shot according to law."

FARM LAND BOOM FEARED BY WICKARD

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—Another disastrous farm land boom is developing, Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard said today as he urged would-be purchasers to use extra money to retire debts or to purchase war bonds rather than to buy farm real estate at present inflated values.

"The rate at which farm land prices are rising, coupled with the large number of sales, are unmistakable signs that an inflationary land spree is under way in many regions," he said.

The secretary's comment were made in connection with an agriculture department survey showing war markets for farm commodities have boosted land values an average of 42 per cent above the average prevailing in the 1935-39 period.

Wickard said that about a third of the farm purchases are being made by city people, particularly war workers seeking a place to go when the war ends. In too many cases, he added, the city people and war workers, as well as farmers, are paying too much. By "too much," the secretary meant a price greater than the long-time earning power of the land at farm commodity prices lower than those prevailing under wartime conditions.

Wickard, on a number of occasions, has recommended governmental measures designed to put a brake on rising land values. Those outlined by him as worth considering include: (1) restriction of credit; (2) establishment of ceiling prices on land and the issuance of permits to purchase; (3) imposition of a transfer tax, and (4) imposition of a capital gains resale tax.

International Test Tube

Gl's of Four Nations at Home Under One Roof.

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN
Associated Press Writer

KEESLER FIELD, Miss.—A single GI barracks here in the center of a vast expanse of saltwhite sand, palmettos and pines is a test tube, officials at this Army school for B-24 bomber mechanics say, for post-war understanding between nations.

A few weeks ago several hundred Fighting French youths arrived to join the Americans, Chinese and Brazilians brought here for training in how to keep the mighty Liberators flying. Representatives of the four countries were assigned to a single squadron in a single barracks.

"This international squadron is one of the best outfits on the field," is the official comment.

"Mutual interests have overcome language difficulties and the variance in customs and habits. A spirit of good natured cooperation resigns in the 'international settlement'."

Second Sgt. Li-Hsu Teng, 24, of the Chinese air force, puts it differently: "Boys are boys," he says. "We're all cooking on the front burner."

Brazilian Alberto Botelho Machado looks at it from another angle: "There are nice girls in Mississippi. I think maybe this would be a good place to live after we mop up the Nazis."

The names of the Fighting French, some of whom escaped from occupied France, are never published because of their families at home. Daily they pore over maps of Normandy, tracing progress of Allied armies. They study hard, practice English, like baseball, table tennis, pool and girls.

And the belles of the magnolia belt, who have been teaching them the boogie beat, say the Frenchmen are definitely beamish.

The Chinese are tops as scholars. Camp records show their class average is 96.

"But don't get the idea those boys are just plain bookish," says Sgt. Robert Saenger of New York City. "They have a good memory—especially of Japanese planes over China. They've a vital interest in the calling card capacity of these big four-motored jobs we manicure."

Spokesman for the American "roomies" of the boys from the allied nations, Sgt. Robert Mallan of Salamanca, N. Y., says enthusiastically: "We have the best crop of Joes in the world and planners of post-war international goodwill could get plenty of pointers right here where we grow the stuff."

Baseball fans! Thousands of the men and boys who used to sit beside you at the ball park are now in the frontlines of global war. You can back them up with your blood. Phone 2439, Red Cross office, for an appointment.

New York State Conservation department surveys on the Wiscoy and East Coy creeks have revealed for the second successive year that, contrary to general belief, the most recently planted trout are not the first ones caught.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills

Busy Lima Depot Keeps Tanks Rolling To Battle

Thousands of Vehicles Pour Through Plant on Way to All Allied War Fronts.

By ARTHUR BOSTWICK
Associated Press Writer

LIMA, O., Aug. 3 — Bristling with combat vehicles, a formidable domestic war front is located near this busy industrial community.

It is Uncle Sam's Lima tank depot, removed but a single step from flaming front line operations abroad.

That step is transportation—delivery of vehicles fully equipped and ready for action to United Nations forces in combat zones.

Through the magic of American industrial production and military coordination, some 200 acres of lush Ohio farmland yields an uninterrupted harvest of tanks, the armored behemoths of warfare, and an assorted complement of other mobile equipment. The latter ranges from tiny jeeps to lethal tank destroyers and ponderous 45-ton tank retrievers. Some still are on the secret military list.

And each of the undisclosed thousands of vehicles here is "on order," that is, it has a fixed rendezvous with the axis foe overseas where battle is joined.

One of Three in U. S.

The Lima Tank Depot, one of three in the nation, is a major military clearing house, or expediting unit, for the roaring, rumbling ingredients of mechanized war.

Although the depot's 12-acre plant—a series of three structures representing a government investment in excess of $10,000,000—does not build vehicles, it is geared to incorporate improvements decided upon after they leave tank-building arsenals and before they reach ship-side for their journey abroad.

Here combat vehicles are outfitted and processed for shipment direct to armored division G. I. Joe's, to British Tommies, to Russia's avenging warriors and, in smaller volume, to the Far East.

Here the belligerent wheeled products of industry are modified to meet the oft-changing needs of troops in the field. A flash from overseas might call for an added thickness of armor plate to eliminate a vulnerable spot in a tank, possibly to match newly encountered enemy fire-power. For strategic reasons it might be necessary to alter radio equipment or make changes in the powerful motors or gears.

Late Improvement Made

In effect the depot stands ready to make eleventh-hour improvements recommended by the men who ride these automotive forts in battle.

"This is the final contact point before shipment overseas," Major C. G. Wood, officer-in-charge, told Ohio newspapermen who toured the depot. "When a train pulls out of the depot it is bound for a shipping port. Employes of the depot must make sure that when soldiers move a tank against the enemy it will do its job."

The rear-echelon home front "soldiers" who keep the depot in tempo with developments afield in Normandy, Russia, Italy and in the Pacific theater span the age bracket from 16 to four-score years.

United Motors Service, Inc., wholly-owned subsidiary of General Motors, and recruitment officials canvassed the countryside for help after United Motors was chosen to operate the depot in November, 1942, on a cost-plus-fee basis. Started May 13, 1942, the plant was designed for the manufacture of big guns but to meet the course of the war authorities designated it a tank depot.

More than 4,000 persons are on the payroll, most residing in 13 counties within a radius of 50 miles. High school students, mechanics, clerks, mothers and grandmothers, sweethearts and wives of fighting men, homespun Buckeye farmers—all are trained to do a particular job skillfully.

Depot Knows Blitz

Fluctuations in the progress of the war are reflected immediately in demands upon the depot. Overtime work, therefore, is commonplace for these civilians who must fill emergency "blitz" orders. Convoy shipping schedules are their deadlines — and convoys don't wait.

These Ohioans have processed more than 60,000 vehicles: washed and lubricated them, executed modifications, checked gun calibers, the operation of traverse and stabilizer mechanisms; installed inter-vehicle radio equipment and telephone systems within vehicles; tested tanks in a final proving-ground run; treated them against rust and sea water and, finally, sealed them air-and water-tight before crating them with such "on vehicle material" as machine gun and spare equipment and tools.

After a tour of the depot, which has a vehicle and equipment inventory totaling billions of dollars, Major Wood remarked:

"If a tank's radio fails, its gears refuse to carry it at top speed or its guns fail at the crucial moment, its crew faces unmerciful death. If they die because of some functional failure due to negligence on the part of a depot worker, the tragedy is directly chargeable to that empolye."

Odd Happenings in Ohio

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O.—Mis-printed cards placed in downtown windows by the United States Employment Service caused a bit of hilarity among townspeople who read: "The war news are good—keep them good."

HAMILTON, O. — Robert Carroll is an unhappy dog owner with this complaint:

His dog slept soundly on the porch while a burglar forced a window and took $7, but barked loud and long when Detective William Blair and Patrolman Robert Ferdelman arrived to investigate.

TOLEDO, O.—A menu in a local hotel lunchroom contained good news for the "Wimpy clan." A note explained:

"We are pleased to advise that because of the recent changes in rationing requirements, we have been able to increase the size of our hamburgers. The same fine quality of meat will be used and the price will be the same as heretofore."

DAYTON, O.—It wasn't a very big fire—just the roof and corner of a house in North Dayton were burned, but it happened in the night, and with the smoke and everything, it seemed a major catastrophe to the harried owner.

In his nightshirt—coughing and wheezing and fanning the smoke—he seized a big China vase in the hall rushed to an upstairs bedroom window and threw it out with a mighty heave. Then he grabbed his wife's fur coat, rushed through the smoke, held it tightly and carefully as he ran down the stairs, through the living room and far out into the yard, where he laid it carefully on the grass.

Yes sir, presence of mind means a lot.

Mothers! Have you donated a pint of blood to the Red Cross in honor of your boy in service? You can honor them with a life-saving donation and help guarantee the life of some wounded fighting man by giving a pint of your blood. It's the simplest and most direct way to help protect your sons in service. Phone 2439 for appointment, Red Cross office.

Tattooing Tested in Plastic Surgery Complexion Search

By H. W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

DURHAM, N. C.—Tattooing is under trial at Duke hospital as a means of improving the complexions of plastic surgical cases by Dr. Kenneth L. Pickerell, Duke University associate in surgery.

The tattooing is used to add natural color to skin grafted to faces from other parts of the body since transferred skin does not possess the natural facial colors.

Both lips and eyebrows can be simulated by tattoo ink. Pale skin from other parts of the body can be given a little lasting color when used as a replacement for lost cheeks.

Tattooing also will restore the natural color of chin areas of men by imitating the slight darkening caused by whiskers, whose stubbs show even after the cleanest shave.

The effectiveness of the Duke experiments depends on how long the tatooing will remain without fading.

Necessity, Not Sympathy

THE maturity of American opinion about international affairs may be hastened by the necessity which has forced Turkey at long last to break with Germany and seems to be forcing Finland, at the northern extremity of Hitler's line of influence in eastern Europe, toward the same decision.

The same necessity has kept the Franco regime in Spain from yielding to its native inclination and has had similar effect in the Middle East and Sweden and Ireland. The Allies, themselves, are not bound together by sympathies, but by common necessities. The persistent attempt to justify their collaboration on a basis of something else—to find common ideological grounds for a military coalition among divergent peoples—has been the source of more misunderstanding and confusion than any single aspect of Allied activity.

The Turks are on our side not because they love us, but because Germany is being beaten. The Finns probably will end up on our side because they guessed wrong and were left high and dry by Germany's inability to maintain military contact with them when the Baltic front collapsed. Perhaps Spain will end the war on our side; it would be no stranger than the fact that Italy now is listed as a nominal ally. The pressure of events is breaking up Germay's system of satellite and near-satellite states. The structure is collapsing day by day in Europe—and a climax is near. It is being undermined in South America—chiefly Argentina for which the Germans had high hopes. Military necessity is accomplishing what resolutions and pledges failed to accomplish—the disillusionment of Germany's fair weather friends in World war II.

The Generals

NOMINATION of Lt. Gen. Joseph Warren Stilwell, U. S. commander in Burma, to be a full general will create a fresh flurry of interest in the title. It is not an easy one to rationalize.

As befits the greatest war in history, the United States has more full generals than ever before—Marshall, Eisenhower, Arnold, MacArthur and, now, Stilwell. During World war I, its full generalships were held by Tasker H. Bliss and John J. Pershing. Pershing's generalship was made permanent in 1919.

As a general practice—the pun is intentional—generalships are bestowed temporarily. Thus, the man who serves as chief of staff is made a full general. That is the status at present of Gen. Marshall. It was the status of MacArthur when he was chief of staff 1930 to 1935. He was recalled to active duty after his retirement as a major general, made a temporary lieutenant general and then a temporary full general. His rank, like that of Stilwell, is major general.

Fortunately, there are few enough four star generals to be remembered without much trouble. George Washington does not head the list; there is no record that he ever was given the title of general, though he held the now overworked title of commander-in-chief in the Continental army from 1775 to 1783.

The list begins with Ulysses T. Grant and continues with William T. Sherman and Philip H. Sheridan. So much for the Civil war. It jumps then to John J. Pershing—and that is the big four. Aside from the generals now active—Marshall, MacArthur, Eisenhower and Arnold—the only others are these, including MacArthur, who held the post of chief of staff between the two wars. They are: Tasker H. Bliss, Peyton C. Marsh, Charles P. Summerall and Malin Craig. Gen. Stilwell is being nominated for distinguished company, but any general who can keep fighting in Asia without supplies or anything else to speak of, needs all the encouragement he can get.

Manuel Quezon

THE rubbery little man who served as buffer between political explosions in the Philippines and their rumbling repercussions in Washington is dead. Another Manuel Quezon may not happen again in a political generation; he will be difficult, perhaps impossible, to replace.

His political stock in trade was independence for the Philippines—independence from everybody. He was as incapable of getting enthusiastic about complete collaboration with the United States as he had been previously about collaboration with Spain, or as he would be later about collaboration with the Japanese. Perhaps if he had been a younger man when Japan's blow fell, he might have gone back to his islands after their liberation to tell his countrymen what he and their American friends—and especially those American friends who call themselves Democrats—had discovered in some 40 years about the wisdom of asking for independence with a determined enemy waiting for a chance to strike.

The Philippines may win independence in fact as well as in name some day. It is a fact usually overlooked lately, but one that may be recalled by the death of the president of the Philippine government-in-exile, that existing law calls for the Philippines to be cut adrift from the United States in 1946

News Behind the News

Post War Problems at Home Not Feared, But Those of Europe Regarded Troublesome.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—From [illegible] Paris, Governor Stassen came back with the message that the home front is overpessimistic about the end of the war and over-defeatist about the peace.

Public opinion is so eager to grasp every sign of hope for the end that the resisting power of our enemies may have been underestimated. Guessing about that by the most responsible authorities now fluctuates naturally [illegible]

A man who thinks Germany will last beyond the election is considered an extremist, but bets are being made to that effect.

The constant daily news of diplomacy (or lack of it) involving Russian aims, but particularly the news of the colossal domestic tasks ahead (employment, debts, peace economics) unquestionably have caused a public fear which may be pessimistic if not defeatist.

The volume of statistics that are daily being presented in the news by all the governmental and lobbying promotional ventures seem to me too much warped by economic facts. As usual, statistics never measure the human element.

Signal for New Hope

In my opinion, the bands will start playing again at the armistice. Immediately there will be a different public spirit. All the pent-up fears of war will be released. The very occasion will be a signal for renewed hope. Everyone who has someone in the service knows what that means.

To the public also, it will be an end of rationing (or most of it) and similar restrictions of discomfort imposed on civilian life. These overlooked factors of economics and their inspiration on business will be important.

The GI bill of rights provides $25 a week unemployment insurance to service men for any 52 weeks of two years after discharge. (Incidentally, the CIO did not gain in popular favor by proposing $35 a week for industrial workers, but Democratic Senator Murray has hastened to cover his and their embarrassment at wanting more than the soldier by introducing a bill to raise the service maximum to $35.)

Some Incomes To Drop

Some special classes of war workers will suffer a reduction in income by returning to normal work, but any "over-defeatism" on the home front in general seems to me to lie in financial considerations of the years ahead.

But, behind all the news from Europe, apprehensions for the peace are glaring. The fanaticism of the young German officers in resisting the guidance of their elders (recounted in this column published July 26) carries the implication that they may resist reason in the peace. It asks the question:

Will the peace bring peace? Or will Germany, Austria, Poland, the Balkans, after the war, be France in reverse?

Will the Nazis go underground and fight like the Maquis?

Can revolution be prevented?

A younger generation has arisen in Europe since Mussolini and Hitler a generation which does not know reason, only force.

Can we avoid street fighting, revolutions, assassinations on the same old or larger European scale?

Searching for Answers

The news of the day itself asks these questions, not in defeatism, but in search of an answer.

Just now, State Secretary Hull is preparing to call a new security conference of the large powers to consider the political settlement in Europe. Up to now, all conferences have dealt with generalities and not with the difficulties which lie in specific application.

So you have the Polish Committee of National Liberation, announcing from Moscow its competition with the Polish government in London. The same situation is present in some degree throughout Europe.

Thus, any reasonable analysis of the situation requires the conclusion that doubts about post war at home may be exaggerated ,but doubts about the peace in Europe are not.

Author of the Week

By John Selby

Associated Press Writer.

A TEXAN named Frank Goodwyn has come pretty close to adding something imperishable (I believe that is the lit'ry supplement phrase) to American literature. It is something as truly a part of America as Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn, or Whitman's poetic catalogues. But it comes from the Brownsville neighborhood of Texas, and hence is almost as Mexican as it is American.

FRANK GOODWYN

Mr. Goodwyn's "The Magic of Limping John" is about a wizard: Limping John Luna was a fiddler who wandered among the Spanish-American villages of the district playing for weddings, catching wild ponies on occasion, hunting, wenching and otherwise filling what time he did not need for his tequila bottle. He was a big man and bearded. He had an air, too, and was wondrously popular both as fiddler and as man. But one day he had some bad luck.

With a couple of cronies, he got himself very drunk on the way to a wedding. He pretended to be the Devil to frighten a simple-minded innkeeper, and swaggered on to the wedding. At the wedding a shot was heard, and the shot turned out to have been fired by another rather simple chap who also had had a fright at Limping John's hands. The crowd gathered about the supposed suicide, but it was Limping John who picked up the body and took it home. Some time later, John happened to notice one of the dead man's arms move, and he was frightened.

It developed that what looked like a workmanlike hole in the corpse's temple was actually little more than a bruise—but Limping John's reputation was made; he had brought the man to life. Nor was he ever able to escape his increasingly horrible fate. Everything he did became a miracle. Credulous women brought perfectly well children to him for his blessing, and equally credulous men built a miraculous framework with great care, inserted Limping John therein, and then announced that he was responsible. And believed it.

There is something extremely funny about Mr. Goodwyn's book, and something terrifying in the way a superstitious citizenry can ruin a man by making him a god.

Public Opinion

Secretary of State Hull, speaking to newspapermen assigned to the state department on the occasion of the opening of new pressroom accommodations, said:

"You are engaged in work that is only second in its responsibility to the most important work of the government itself, that is, disseminating in the most understandable manner all of the pertinent and material facts and circumstances that would be included in what we call spot news. That range of work especially is just about as responsible as any work I can think of in this crisis through which we all are passing.

"There has never been greater need for an alert public opinion than there is today. It will continue to be increasingly greater until victory has crowned our efforts and post-war problems have been settled. You will perform a tremendous function for good or bad according to the skill and intelligence and practical judgment with which you aid in developing and keeping thoroughly alive what we call an alert public opinion.

"There is, unfortunately, today in this country and in other countries a decline—I may say, an unconscious decline—in interest on the part of a surprising number of citizens, not only in this war and the awfulness of the issues that are involved, but in planning for the future as well. I notice that at times an increasing number of people will listen to that part of the news which is of a minor or temporary or trivial nature and neglect the big basic questions that stand right before their faces. Your most vital task today is to make the maximum contribution in your work to what we would call an informed public opinion relating to basic international questions, those arising during the war and those that are inevitably arising even now in relation to post-war peace."

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Aug. 3, 1934.

Cary A. Hudson, superintendent of schools at Fremont, accepted an offer to become superintendent of Marion public schools on a three-year contract at a salary of $5,000 a year. He was to succeed George A. Bowman, who had accepted a position as superintendent at Lakewood.

The war department in Washington announced it had perfected a $33,000,000 plan to encircle the United States with anti-aircraft defenses, and would lay the proposal before congress.

A news dispatch from Chicago reported that caddies at the Exmoor golf club, after other means of seeking an increase in their fees failed, resorted to nudism, with the result that scores of players including many women hurried away from the course. Police broke up the nudism strike.

Mrs. Emma McClaren, 39, of near Hepburn was fatally burned when a kerosene stove exploded at her home.

Police seized four slot machines in a visit to the Marion Athletic club on North Prospect street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dendinger, recently married, were given a party at the home of Mrs. Dendinger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Busler of Sugar street.

Miss Mary Guthrie, Miss Margaret Muntsinger, Miss Garnet Thomasson and Miss Verna Mae Thomasson were in Chicago attending the World's fair.

Adjutant and Mrs. John Hunter and son Jack of the Marion Salvation Army corps returned from a three-week visit with friends in Dallas, Tex.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Aug. 3, 1924.

Charles E. Townsend, for 12 years U. S. senator from Michigan, died at his home in Jackson, Mich.

Rev. Father J. Dean McFarland, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McFarland of Marion, celebrated solemn high mass at St. Mary Catholic church in the presence of an assembly that filled the edifice. Priests from several other cities assisted and the sermon was given by Rev. F. X. Cotter, pastor of St. Mary church. This was the first solemn high mass celebrated in this country by Rev. Father McFarland. He had been ordained to the priesthood March 15 and received his degree of Doctor of Divinity before leaving Rome.

Dr. D. S. Helms of Lima, former Methodist superintendent of the Lima district, was speaker at union church services at the Chautauqua pavilion. Music was given by the men's chorus of Calvary Evangelical church under the direction of Leroy D. Zachman.

Matchless Marines

By The Associated Press

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC—World War II may popularize the cigaret lighter as World War I did the wrist watch, according to a Marine Corps combat correspondent.

He reports that about three of every ten Marines who smoke have lighters and usually one of the three has two. Jungle dampness, tropical downpours and perspiration, he found, wreck havoc with matches and tempers.

Today and Tomorrow

Nazis Believed Busy with Own Post War Planning as War Crisis Nears.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE energy with which Hitler and the Nazi chieftains are reacting cannot, I think, be explained except on the theory that they are putting into effect a carefully considered plan.

Undoubtedly there were many signs of panic in Goering's first broadcast after the bomb was exploded. Goering is a warm-blooded ruffian. But Hitler and Himmler are, to use Hitler's own favorite adjective, ice-cold devils.

They are not acting like men who think of themselves as doomed, and merely preparing to sell their lives as dearly as possible. They are acting like men who feel they still have something to live for and believe that they can still accomplish it.

Not desperation, but a conviction based on a well-laid plan, must, I think, be the reason why their conduct in the face of military disaster and internal disintegration is still so purposeful, so concrete, and so cold. When men in a very tight place act with such practical decision, it is an almost certain sign that they are prepared for it.

What plan and what purpose? They are, let us always remember, deeply conscious of 1918 and determined to profit by it. In 1918 the German army, when it knew it was defeated, succeeded in making the German civilian authorities at home assume the onus of capitulation, and by this means the high command fastened upon the home front the responsibility for the defeat.

Pointing Finger of Blame

The German generals were preparing to repeat this maneuver, which would have meant fixing the blame for what is happening and what will happen, upon the Nazis who this time are in absolute control of the home front.

It is against this, I believe, that Hitler has prepared himself and is now reacting. He may have some hope that by fighting on, by various trick devices and by bloody resistance, he can last until winter, and perhaps ure out the Allies and divide them.

But these hopes are probably secondary considerations as compared with making sure that in the eyes of his followers in Germany, not he but someone else is the scapegoat for the defeat. In the past few weeks the crops of officers which is recruited from the hereditary nobility have been elected as the new scapegoats.

At whatever risk to the morale and fighting capacity of the armies, Hitler has sought to make sure that when the Nazis go underground after the defeat, they will have the necessary explanations and accusations with which to operate their propoganda and conspiracies.

If the Nazi movement is to live on underground, and exploit to its own advantage the inevitable suffering and frustration of the German nation, it is absolutely essential that it should have an alibi for the defeat.

If this is correct, then we must assume that a well-worked out plan exists by which the Nazis will go underground.

Nazi Plan Ready

That the Nazi plan is widespread and already prepared, there can be little doubt. It must extend beyond Germany. Calculating men like the Lavals and the Quislings are not proposing to die if they can help it.

The calculating men will have worked out schemes of escape and refuge. There is already some evidence that they have, the most obvious but not the only path of escape and refuge being through Franco's Spain to Argentina.

When the Nazi movement goes underground in Europe and seeks asylum abroad, its object will be, of course, a return to power.

Nothing will test so severely the acumen and purpose of the United Nations as the measures they institute for isolating the Nazi underground in Germany and satellite Europe from its connections abroad. Only complete control of all traffic, all transactions, and all communications between occupied Germany and the rest of the world can possibly give them the means of dealing with the problem.

Hitler's actions in the past weeks should bring us to a sharp realization that when hostilities between the armies cease, there will be a long and difficult phase of the conflict, political rather than military, a policing rather than a fighting phase, which still lies ahead of us.

Election Candidates: Mr. Truman

HARRY TRUMAN was born on a Kansas farm. He didn't like the hours and took a job in a drug store. It was one place he wouldn't have to sweep and help with the heavy work on the farm. He went to the drug store for [illegible] pastry.

He had an idea he might like to be a druggist, but he gave up the idea when the drug stores started putting in everything from ammunition to canoes.

Later Mr. Truman worked in a bank. The contrast between drug store and bank surprised him. There are no lunch counter odors in banks and you can't get a malted milk from a cashier. The only happy moment he knew in the bank came one day when a customer walked up to the teller's cage and demanded a refund on a bottle of hair oil.

At another time Mr. Truman worked on a Kansas City newspaper. He wrapped newspapers. That was when he could wrap 'em so as not get into postal trouble.

Then he went to the 1918 world war and got a top flight fighting man. Coming back he opened a haberdasher shop. But a haberdasher in Missouri is no gold mine. One has been known to list a man for general [illegible] shirts and has let distance, too, out there.

The store failed through overstocking [illegible] goods nara to sell. He had made the mistake of putting two silk hats, four dress suits and some silk socks.

• • •

Mr. Truman decided he had done enough experimenting with the idea of working for a living and went into politics. He got a job as a road supervisor. It was outdoor work. And the road led to Washington.

Later he was made a county judge. No knowledge of law was necessary for an appointment as a judge in Missouri at the time. But Mr. Truman thought he would like to be prepared in case a defendant got technical, so he studied law books.

Any judge on that Bench who studied law became a judicial celebrity. He soon wound up in the United States Senate with the New Deal. So many pills and cure-alls were associated with it that he thought he was back in the drug store of his youth. But he didn't have to do any porter work, so he liked it.

As a Senator he proved that hard work in early life had been no handicap. He came into fame through probing exorbitant war contracts. A Democrat worrying over money was a novelty. It started him on the road to the vice presidential nomination. Fancy that!

THERE are to be fewer turkeys for dinners this year. The no-one-front patriot may have to undergo the terrible sacrifice of refusing a third helping.

We want to see the filly of the year, Triple Tear, in a $50,000 "Weepstakes."

After reading Goebbels' claim that the Aachen bombing proved that providence is with Hitler, we are prepared to hear him announce that Der Fuehrer's favorite book is "God Is My Co-Pilot."

"I am convinced that Providence has taken the Fuehrer under its gracious protection because it wants to keep him for a great future."—Goebbels.

Saving him for the Varsity.

"A German broadcast repeated the announcement of the attempt on Hitler's life, and followed through with martial music in place of a previously scheduled talk on the extermination of rats." Seen on the ticker tape.

Not even changing the subject.

Onward, Relics!

By Truman Twill

Among the curious jobs that public jobholders have found time to do in the middle of Armageddon is a survey to find out what needs repairing in the American home so Washington authorities can run the war better.

The sleuths found out that the radio is in pretty bad shape and needs more repairs than anything else. The electric fan and the sweeper aren't all they might be, either. And as for the sewing machine, washing machine, electric iron and water heaters—the less said the better.

But if Washington will quit working itself into a tizzy, here is a secret. The radio was in pretty bad shape before the war began and isn't getting any worse. What the sleuths don't know is that the way to get the dad-blasted thing to work is to sneak up on it tippy-toe and whack the daylights out of its right side with a clenched fist. That will bring either one of two stations in clear as a bell—and two is enough—or more than been for the last five years or more.

As for the electric fan, it needs repairs all right, but nothing serious. The cat got his tail in the summer before Pearl Harbor and [illegible] has been able to think of the fan since without wincing. All it would take to fix it is five minutes of trial and error bending the blades back into their original position—but no one has got around to it yet. It's nothing for Washington to worry about.

The sweeper isn't anything to look at, that's true, with that roller skate under one side, but that doesn't have anything to do with the war, either. The sweeper just works better than it was. The household's hairpin mechanic figured it out for herself and resisted all offers to get the thing repaired. She's proud of her handiwork.

As for the sewing machine, that's a story in itself. The sewing machine is eccentric. It always has been. Its eccentricities have been a family joke for two generations and may still be producing laughs in a third. But if all the pajamas and dresses and curtains and what-have-you that have been run through it were laid end to end, they would testify that the sewing machine's peculiarities haven't interfered with its work. All it needs is a good letting alone and a couple of drops of oil once a year.

The washing machine is a relic. It groans and thumps. It groans and balks. When it gets overloaded, it gives a philosophic sign and blows a fuse. But it isn't a victim of war, unless you count that brave war Mussolini fought against the unarmed Ethiopians. And it will carry on for the duration of this one. Its ailments aren't acute, and probably won't be fatal. If they get too painful to bear, the offending part will be removed and the rest will carry on from there. That goes for the water heater, the iron and everything else. If Washington will keep its attention on the war, the rest of us relics will get along somehow.

The elusive scent of new-mown hay [illegible] to a chemical called coumarin. Since it is impossible to extract this delicate essence from drying grass, it is synthesized from coal tar and blended with other odors in fine perfumes.

SEVENTEEN MEMBERS and two guests were present at a luncheon meeting of the Elk's Women's club yesterday afternoon at Hotel Harding. It was decided that starting in September, the group will hold a luncheon meeting the first Wednesday of each month. The third Wednesday of each month the club will assist the Red Cross. This plan will continue for the duration of the war. Awards in cards were won by Mrs. Laura Heilman, euchre, Mrs. Russell Wilhelm, contract and Mrs. B. R. Pelt, auction. Mrs. Pelt acted as hostess. Guests were Mrs. Clarence Snyder of Trenton, N. J., and Mrs. John Eschinger.

A GUEST party was held by members of the Colonial club last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Stine of Oak street. A six o'clock dinner was served at small tables. Following the dinner, games and contests were enjoyed in the yard of the Stine home. Guests were Richard Seneff of Newark, R. M. Ewing, Fred Romine, Leo Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Place and Reuben Rettig.

Election of officers was held Tuesday at a meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the First United Brethren church in the Community House. Those elected were: Mrs. Minnie VanAsbeck, president; Mrs. Grace Stoner, vice president; Mrs. Dorothy Burkepile, secretary, Mrs. Hazel Hufford, assistant secretary; Mrs. Ruth Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Mildred Noble, chorister; Mrs. Laurel Long, assistant chorister; Mrs. Florence Cline, pianist, and Miss Kattie Cromer, assistant pianist. For devotions led by Mrs. Gladys Prettyman, a vocal duet was sung by Mrs. VanAsbeck and Mrs. Long. A reading was given by Mrs. Daisy Hoffman and several vocal selections by Florence and Billy Burkepile.

Mrs. Lydia Collins entertained the Jolly Hour club Friday night at her home on Girard avenue. Awards were won by Mrs. Marguerite Luke, Mrs. Grant James and Mrs. Clara Riddle.

Burton Gives Account of Action in Senate

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—Sen. Harold H. Burton, Republican of Ohio, says he sent semi-annual reports of his doings in congress to his "Stockholders"—the people of Ohio.

Burton struck on the plan, he said yesterday, as the only way out of answering thousands of letters—they hit 1,000 daily during the lend-lease debates.

In each report Burton tells some 6,000 heads of educational, civic and educational groups as well as to newspapers and mayors, how and why he voted on certain measures. Unusual activities, such as his trip on an inspection tour of Alaska, call for a supplemental report.

Washington Flooded by Six-Inch Downpour

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—Under still-overcast skies Washington returned to normal activity today after a 6.22 inch downpour which disrupted the lives of thousands of its residents.

Hundreds of families were forced to evacuate their homes—particularly those in several temporary war housing projects. Hundreds of others were driven from ground floor offices or were long-delayed in returning home from work last night as traffic facilities became tangled.

Almost a foot of water poured into the lobbies of government buildings adjoining the Mall. The historic Constitution avenue was a virtual canal for several hours.

Army Nurses' Training Hard

Use Commando Tactics as They Dig Foxholes, Live in Tents.

By International News Service

CENTRAL PACIFIC AREA HEADQUARTERS — Wherever Lt. Gen. Robert S. Richardson, Jrs. fighting forces go enroute to Tokio, Brig. Gen. Edgar King's Army nurses are prepared to follow in frontline field hospitals.

Island warfare is as tough as any on the face of the globe, but World War II's "Angels of Mercy" in these units now receive rigorous jungle and amphibious training almost equal to that given the men of crack invasion forces.

These women are thoroughly familiar with the technical medical portion of their work, but they also are aware that preparation and training for CPA warfare is vital for the safety of their own lives. And they want to take care of themselves without any help from males when they reach the front.

Take Long Marches

So, with feminine determination, they march long distances over rough terrain, bivouac in pup tents overnight, struggle up and down cargo nets, hit the beach from LCV's, dig foxholes, practice evacuation of wounded under jungle conditions, and prepare camouflage against aerial attack.

Since early this year a large group of blonds, brunettes, and redheads has been sharing tents, gasping under cold showers, swatting insects, wadding their clothes in barracks bags, and living a most rugged life under conditions akin to those they will meet in actual combat area. The officer in charge, Lieut. Nellie Boward, of Staunton, Va., directs her school with an eye for the practical.

Col. Paul H. Streit, deputy CPA surgeon, said:

"Our idea in having combat training for these nurses is to get them used to living as they will when they are near the front in field hospitals. Life will be no bed of roses there, and we want them to be prepared."

Dressed either in regular fatigue uniforms like those worn by all GI's in this area, or in their newly designed seersucker slack suits, the nurses go through their training with much less grousing than most soldiers. They want everything to run in the rugged manner and become highly indignant if men try to make their training easy for them. They all are anxious to get to the front because they believe they can give the wounded better care than can the male medics.

Typically feminine, however, they feel that they have one justifiable complaint with their present camp. They don't mind cold showers, but the lack of hot water for their volumes of laundry makes them unhappy. Being experts at improvising, they have discovered that they can "borrow" small amounts from the mess kit cleaning tubs, so their mess sergeant is going slowly insane trying to keep his vessels full of hot water.

The camp commander gets a bit perturbed about the feminine frills they add to their tents, each of which house a trio; but aside from this he concedes that "they are damn good soldiers."

many along with a demand for punishment of the guilty.

"There is no doubt that they met their deaths in a manner and under circumstances clearly in violation of well recognized laws and usages of war," the prime minister said.

Ross Munro, Canadian Press reporter with the army, cabled that the "prisoners had been shot in cold blood."

"The murder of those 19 soldiers occurred near Parie, two days after the landing," he wrote, "thirteen were shot in one group with machine guns and the remainder were shot in small groups. The bodies were left unburied by the Germans and later buried by Canadian troops when the area was occupied. A Canadian staff officer suggested that the Canadians were executed because a German commander was infuriated at their refusal to talk."

DEWEY OUTLINES RESULTS OF FIRST MEET ING. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York (left), Republican candidate for president, outlines to a room of reporters action taken in his first meeting at St. Louis, Mo., with 25 other Republican governors. Dewey announced the formation of 14 sub-committees to deal with conflicts between state and federal governments. (Ap Wirephoto.)

governors represented less than half the subjects they expect to include in a major policy statement upon which the group is continuing work today.

Hopes to End Friction

Dewey said previously he hoped this policy statement would provide solutions for the "friction" which he said had developed between the states and the federal government.

In their statement on reconversion, the governors said that "great problem of permanent peacetime jobs can be adequately met only by private business under an enterprising system."

"This system depends upon the individual initiative and organizing genius and energy of all our people," the policy statement said.

"Only through this system and ever increasing production can there be steady and lasting improvement of the standards of living for all.

"To this end, it is all-important not only to the people at home but to the millions of men and women in the service of our country that a proper and friendly relationship be created between government, labor and industry."

The governors commended veterans' organizations for initiating and congress for enacting the so-called "G.I. bill of rights," declaring this was "sound legislation."

Declaring "the huge cost of the war and the waste of the New Deal have created an enormous national debt," the governors said that federal, state and local governments should plan ahead to build needed public works when materials and manpower are available. They said it must be recognized such projects do not fill the place of permanent jobs but only serve as an aid to overall private employment program.

Calls Road Plan Sound

The policy statement called the federal aid highway program "sound and comparatively harmonious," urging its continuance.

Criticizing what they called an "alarming" increase in the acquisition of land by the federal government, the governors said federal-state cooperation in handling such areas was fundamental but added that "cooperation does not and must not mean absorption of local government."

Charging "the New Deal is now seeking to undermine and abandon our traditional state national guard system," the governors said federal control over the guard would "deprive the various states of the military forces essential to the safety of their people."

The governors hoped to complete the policy statement tonight.

But regarded just as important by some party officials were the quiet conferences going on between Brownell and the men who know from experience what it takes for a Republican ticket to carry a state.

Cooperation Encouraging

The national chairman told a news conference last night he was highly encouraged by the measure of cooperation offered by the gubernatorial colleagues of Dewey and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, the vice presidential nominee, in lining up state organizations and volunteering for speaking engagements.

He lost no time in getting the voices of many recorded for later use over the radio in the campaign.

The fact that the 26 governors apparently were on the verge of unanimous agreement on a statement of major policy showed there was something new in party unity within the G.O.P., Brownell said.

"By doing that," he declared, "the governors will have demonstrated to the American people that the Republican party has the unified ability to govern, in contrast with the squabbling, back-biting, quarreling, confusion and bickering that characterizes the New Deal party today."

Expressing confidence the Dewey-Bricker ticket would win in November, Brownell continued conferences today so that all might write their own assignments for the campaign.

In their work on what Dewey has described as an effort to define the areas of responsibility between local and federal governments, sub-committees of governors had completed preliminary recommendations on public works, national guard, highways, reconversion and post-war jobs, public lands, unemployment compensation and employment services.

All the governors, in a session that lasted until 2:30 o'clock in the morning, approved the proposals. Dewey, red-eyed from lack of sleep, told reporters:

"As everybody was rising, I said, 'how about insurance?' and they all threw up their hands."

The subject of insurance and the other seven points on the program will be approved later today.

Dewey said there was "not a fight all day" on the six topics which were approved, and that action was unanimous on every word and phrase.

Their findings were said to urge control, primarily by the states, of the national guard and employment services. Highway and public works projects would be carried out by the states in conjunction with the federal government and the states' part in reconversion would be emphasized, it was reported.

RITES AT BUCYRUS

AMERICAN NAVY NOW LISTS 14,000 SHIPS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—Joseph H. Liston, special assistant to Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board, said yesterday the American navy has 14,000 ships, "more than double the size of all the navies in the world," and declared that after the war, it "must not be dispensed with by a round table discussion."

In an address before the International Association of Lions Clubs, Liston gave the following war production figures:

Ships: 3½ daily in 1942, 5½ daily in 1943, 11¼ today;

80,000 landing craft for the invasion of France;

One rifle every 32 seconds;

One machine gun every 34 seconds;

$280,000,000 monthly for radio and radar; more radios produced in one month today than were produced in one year at peace production peak;

148,000 tanks in the last two years;

185,000 airplanes since Pearl Harbor, with 1944 schedule calling for 100,000 planes at a cost of $21,000,000,000.

GERMANS CHARGED WITH ATROCITIES

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Aug. 3 — The Soviet government today charged that 150,000 persons, including Germans, had been executed at Stalingrad, about 100 miles west of Kiev, during the two years of Nazi occupation.

The commission charged that German doctors intentionally spread infection among thousands of captive patients at gunpoint [illegible] more than 1,000 were subjected daily to typhoid and tuberculosis.

The victims were starved to death on a ration of 200 grams of [illegible], made of ground rock pulp and containing less than two per cent of starch, the commission said.

Other charges were:

Red Army prisoners were tortured to death, and many were buried alive. Hospital newcomers were poured full of [illegible] and shot by guards.

All attempts to escape were pursued by death.

Barbed wire, search lights and machine guns surrounded ten [illegible] where 15,000 to 18,000 [illegible] were crowded.

During the two years an average of 500 to 600 corpses lay on the ground at a hospital railway siding, and only 525 persons remained alive in the hospital when the Red army liberated Stalino.

Staunch Democratic Paper To Back Dewey

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Aug. 3—For the third time in 107 years, the Baltimore Sun advocated today a Republican presidential candidacy, announcing its support of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the nation's highest office.

The Independent Democratic newspaper backed William McKinley against William Jennings Bryan in 1896 and supported Wendell Willkie in 1940 in opposition to a third term for President Roosevelt. The Sun backed Mr. Roosevelt in 1932 and announced no choice in 1936.

BRITTANY

Odon. Although it was not yet apparent whether they would continue to stand and fight or attempt a mass retreat, a front dispatch said there were signs that Nazi reinforcements were beginning to arrive in an effort to plug the breach torn in the center of the German line.

Another pincers was forming around a great block of Germans with a British advance east of Vire which pushed another three miles to the vicinity of Vassy.

The American drive into Brittany was proceeding so fast and on such a wide front it had gotten completely ahead of reports and the only official word at supreme headquarters was the same as 24 hours ago, "the advance beyond Pontorson continues," although today it was known to cover far greater gains than yesterday. (22 words were censored here).

The blackout in reports was bound to further bewilder the disorganized Germans who are fleeing so precipitously they have no way of really knowing where Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's hard-hitting troops are.

The Americans earlier had been reported racing toward Rennes, the cathedral city and communications hub halfway across the Breton peninsula.

There was no report yet of notable resistance by the Germans in Brittany, from which large numbers of Nazi troops were drawn weeks ago to bolster the Normandy front. It seems incredible, however, that the Germans would yield Brest, a major American debarkation port in the first World war, and St. Nazaire, a big U-boat base, without a struggle.

(A revealing symptom of the Germans' situation in Normandy was their use of the phrase "elastic defense." The Nazis used this phrase often to refer to pell mell retreats on the Russian front)

Investigate Second Fire at Patterson Field

By The Associated Press

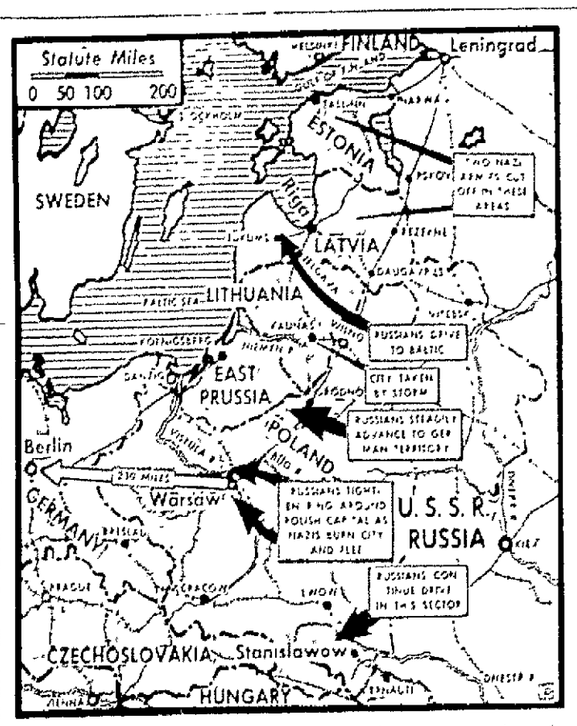
DAYTON, O., Aug 3—Patterson field officials today started an investigation of a $40,000 fire, second in recent months at the field, which destroyed a one-story frame building housing a branch of the post exchange in the Wood City section of the field early today.

According to Col E. H. Jose, base commander, the fire started about 12:35 a. m. in the women's rest room of the building and quickly spread through the structure. The post exchange closes at 12:30 a. m. and employes were starting to clean when the fire broke out. None was injured.

Housed in the building which contained about 40,000 square feet of floor space, were a cafeteria, barber shop and cleaning and pressing shop. The building had completely burned down by 2 a. m.

SPANISH MINISTER DIES

LONDON, Aug. 3—The German DNB agency announced today the death of Spain's foreign minister, Gen. Francisco Gomez Jordana Sousa.



RUSSIA'S ADVANCES on the eastern war front continue to make headline news with the latest offensive taking the Red Army forces of Gen. Ivan C. Bagramyan to the Baltic sea, isolating two German armies in Estonia and Latvia. At the same time, two other powerful Soviet Army groups captured Kaunas, pre-war capital of Lithuania and closed a steel arc of siege around Warsaw. Today's dispatches reported Red forces were within three miles of East Prussia and were shelling German territory.

Company M Camp Plans Made

Marion State Guard Unit Set To Leave Sunday; More Enlistments Needed.

Members of Co. M of the Ohio State guard are making preparations to leave Sunday for Camp Light in Zaleski State forest, Vinton county, for a week of training. The men will enter the camp Sunday and leave the following Sunday.

The company must be expanded to a strength of 60 before it leaves for camp, according to First Lt. Elmer Smith. Enlisted strength of the group now stands at 56. Lt. Smith said enlistments will be taken up to the deadline Saturday night.

Recent promotion of Timothy Fahey from Staff Sgt. to second lieutenant has lowered the number of enlisted men now in the company. (Lt. Fahey has been with the company since it was mustered into service). Pfc. Theodore Taylor, who will leave for the Navy Friday will be unable to be in camp.

Company members have been ordered to report to the Armory on West Church street by 7:30 Saturday night and are to come prepared to stay there all night. Rolling of packs and other preparations for the trip to camp will be carried out Saturday night.

Capt. Carl Ebert will leave for camp Saturday night with Sgt. Floyd Sutton and Cpl. Paul Penry as an advance detail.

Attending camp will be Capt. Ebert, First Lt. Smith, Second Lt. Timothy Fahey, First Sgt., grade I, Carl Pollock, Staff Sergeants grade II, Kermit Taylor and Donald Wertman, Sergeants grade IV, Lawrence Edgington, Alvin Franklin, Frank Furniss and Floyd Sutton, Corporals grade V, Howard Fogle, Harold Grant, Carl Massie, Robert McEldowney and Paul Penry, Privates First Class, grade VI, Loren Bailey, Harry Chard, Earl Camp, Lewis Cunningham, Elwood Hazen, James Melby, Delmos Moore, William Postel, Theodore Schiller, Walter E. Williams and Walter V. Williams, Privates grade VII, Vernon Brammer, Faye Bosh, Harlos Brutchey, Rodger Burden, William Byrd, Neil Chapman, Glenn Chard, Anthony D'Amato, Jesse Downs, James Henry, John Klingel, Ray Kinder, Charles Lewis, Ralph McFann, Clifford McQuillen, Charles Murton and Delbert Newland.

TAX REPEAL

$30,000,000 in anticipation of increased sales tax revenue.

The tax commissioner estimated this increase would be "material" due to "moderate inflation" and said it would meet anticipated increases in operating cost of government and the school foundation state subsidy and still be in a position to offer some aid to local governments.

Many local governments, principally our larger cities, are in need of financial assistance, Evatt said. But rather than have the state increase its subsidies to local governments, he urged it to withdraw from certain fields of taxation and let the local governments raise their own funds.

"Ever-increasing subsidies . . . result in the loss of financial independence of local governments and with it home rule in America," Evatt declared.

D.A.V. Chapter Names Convention Delegates

Election of delegates for the Disabled American Veterans' state convention was held at a meeting of Marion Chapter No. 22, D. A. V. Tuesday night. The convention will be in Columbus Aug. 25, 26 and 27.

Delegates elected were Edward Stayner, commander, Francis Mullins, senior vice commander, William Kehrwacker, adjutant and Robert Buckley, with Paul Bernard as alternate.

James Uline, Robert Dombaugh and Heber Bonnett completed their full life membership payments. A veteran of World War II was received as a new member.

Installation was held for E. W. Koeppen, service officer, Mr. Mullins, senior vice commander, and Mr. Bernard, officer of the day.

Start of Great German Retreat On in France

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Anglo-American allies continue to tear into the badly mauled and disorganized Nazi ranks on the invasion front of France, and a late dispatch from British headquarters in Normandy says this is the beginning of "the great retreat."

That may well be so. The cold fact is the Germans are up against an overwhelming strength in both men and material which have been poured through the bloody beachhead of Normandy.

Hitler's fighting-machine in France is beginning to break up, just as it is doing on the eastern front.

British Prime Minister Churchill yesterday said truly that "it is the Russian army that has done the main work of tearing the guts out of the German army." But while the fighting in France never will reach the monumental scale of the Russo-Nazi war, the western allies also are about to give a fearsome exhibition of ripping out what Mr. Churchill said

More Harbors Soon

If the Americans succeed in cutting off the Brest peninsula and capturing the great port of Brest—and today's reports indicate smashing progress—it will provide harbor and rail facilities which will add much to the Allied striking power. However, Cherbourg can fill the bill for the time being without Brest, and we may expect that there will be no delay in pressing the drive on Paris, for the Canadians and British are destroying the Nazi right wing and the center in the Vire sector while the Yanks race into Brittany on the other flank.

Truly Hitler's pagan gods have deserted him. At last he's feeling the mighty weight of the Allied vise. With the Red armies slashing his entire line to ribbons, and today at the very border of the "sacred soil" of East Prussia, he can't spare troops from the eastern theater to bolster his hard-pressed forces in France. And he has nothing like enough troops or equipment in the west to protect himself for long.

German Strength

At latest reports the Germans had on the Normandy front a total of 28 divisions of various categories, including four panzer units and some infantry divisions which are partly armored. Thirteen of these divisions have been on the British sector and fifteen on the American. It's impossible to estimate accurately the number of troops involved, because many divisions are under normal quota. Perhaps there has been a minimum of a quarter million men.

The Hitlerites claim that the Allies have fifty divisions in Normandy. If that's so it might mean close to 700,000 men. When you consider that the Germans have only about 65 divisions in western Europe, Hitler's problem becomes doubly clear, for he has many points to protect against further Allied invasions.

The American drive into Brittany is eased greatly by the fact that the Germans had to withdraw forces from there to meet the Allied onslaught in Normandy. This withdrawal also lessens the danger of a heavy German counterattack from Brittany against the Allies right wing now emerging from Normandy.

Montreal Trolley Lines Tied Up by Strike

MONTREAL, Aug. 3—Public transportation in this city of 1,000,000 was disrupted today as the Canadian brotherhood of railway employes called out Montreal tramway workers in their third strike within 18 months.

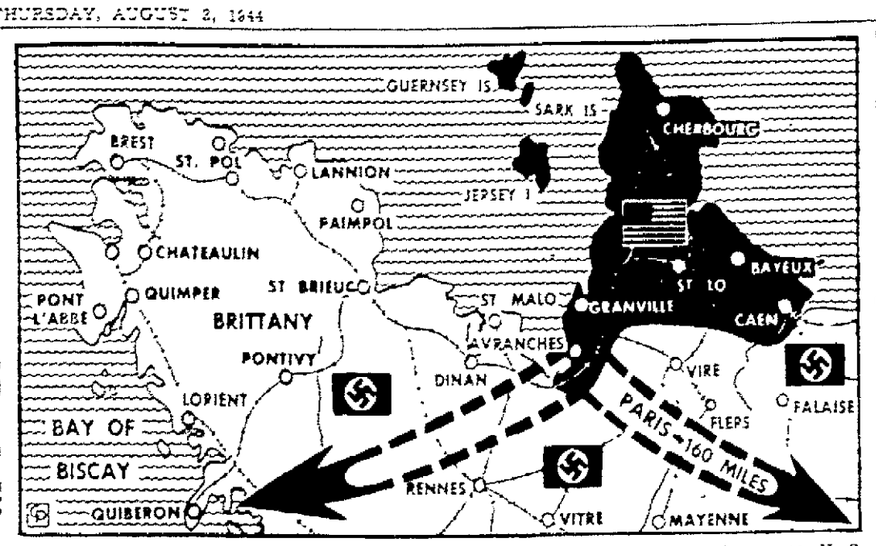
Strike committees were posted at all main intersections at midnight to instruct operators to complete their trips and then proceed to the nearest barn. By 2 a. m. most of the trams had disappeared.

The issue is whether a union shop provision applicable to new employes should be put in the union contract before or after a ruling on its legality by the supreme court of Canada.

More than 4,000 employes in the operating departments of the tramway system were believed affected by the strike. Union members voted the walkout, 3,520 to 78, at a meeting Tuesday night.

7,300 FRENCH SLAIN

LONDON, Aug. 3—The German command announced today the slaying of 7,300 French underground fighters and the capture of 4,700 since D-day, June 6.



DRIVING INTO BRITTANY. After leaving the Normandy peninsula behind at Avranches, U. S. forces are fanning out in two directions, one arm right intent on cutting off the Brest peninsula, the other heading in the direction of Paris, as the dates on map. The American advance continues impressively as it pushes ahead from the pivotal Avranches hub against the disorganized Nazis. Today American troops had reached the important city of Fertre, shown at the lower center of the map above. (International) ing into Czecho-Slovakia, last reported 13 miles away. His advance guards in the extreme south of the active front were 120 miles from German Silesia.

Outside of Warsaw, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's forces hammered at slowly crumbling Nazi defenses in a narrow strip on the east bank of the Vistula. He appeared to be waiting for other Russian forces advancing from positions 30 miles west of Siedlce to join him for the main push across the river.

Push On Trapped Nazis

In the northern sector, where the Russians were pushing against Nazi troops isolated in Estonia and Latvia, major advances were scored between Lake Peipus and the lake country north of Daugavpils.

The Germans originally were estimated to have two armies totaling 200,000 to 300,000 men in this area, but the number actually trapped was uncertain.

In the south, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's troops advanced west of Jaroslaw to positions only 75 miles from Krakow and 123 miles from German Silesia, front dispatches said, capturing 150 towns and villages.

(The Germans admitted the Russians had thrown two strong bridgeheads across the Vistula 120 miles southeast of Warsaw and had driven 17 miles west of the river at one place.)

Front dispatches said Germans were dying by the hundreds at the gates of Warsaw, while Red army tanks edged closer to bridges over the Vistula Stamoviks maintained low level blasting of Nazi troops up and down the stream.

A Soviet pilot returning from the war-wracked Polish capital reported the city in flames.

"In their impotent rage the Germans are destroying the Polish capital," he said. "Buildings in various parts of the city are burning."

Four bridges over the Vistula in the Warsaw sector were believed still intact. Thousands of Nazis were reported massed on the eastern bank in an effort to hold off Rokossovsky's pushes.

Moscow reports contained nothing fresh from the area of the Latvian port of Riga, where Marshal Ivan Bagramian's troops were hurrying northward over the few remaining miles between them and the port. Their objective was to set up guns and block or seriously interfere with German sea activity in and out of the port.

There was no indication of how many Germans were cut off in the Riga sector, but estimates here placed the figure between 25,000 and 50,000.

CLARK LOSES BY 20,000

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3—The lead Atty. Gen. Roy McKittrick piled up to defeat incumbent Sen. Bennett Clark for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Tuesday's primary stood at 20,000 today with reports tabulated from 4328 of the state's 4,412 precincts. The vote was McKittrick's 165,726, Clark 145,856. Clark conceded his defeat late yesterday in a statement blaming the CIO Political Action Committee.

FOES OF CIO ON PAC PROBE GROUP

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 — A three-man subcommittee, two of whose members recently were defeated for renomination in the face of CIO opposition, was named today to make a Dies committee investigation of the CIO's political action committee (PAC).

From his home in Texas, Chairman Martin Dies (D) sent word what the investigation, a continuance of an earlier inquiry by the house committee on un-American activities, would be made by Reps. Starnes (D-Ala), Costello (D-Cal) and Thomas (R-NJ) or Busbey (R-Ill) Starnes and Costello are the defeated pair; Dies also had been made a PAC target at the time he announced he would not seek reelection because of poor health.

Dies said the subcommittee of which Starnes will be chairman, probably would begin its work next week and report within the next month or two to the full committee.

The Texan announced appointment of the committee as he issued an ultimatum to Attorney General Biddle to prosecute, under election statutes, the PAC and government officials he said have been active in PAC work.

Biddle recently reported that a department investigation found no evidence of law-breaking by the PAC.

CHARGED WITH WITCHCRAFT. War torn Britain, faced daily with such modern death-dealing magic as the robot plane, is watching with interest the development of a witchcraft trial in which Mrs. Janet Rebecca Yorke, 62, shown in her pram being wheeled to court in West Ham, England, is being tried under a Witchcraft Act passed in 1735. She is said to "have made a materialization" of the late Queen Victoria, despite the old law.

BOMBERS HIT NAZIS IN GREAT NUMBERS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 3—American heavy bombers were reported over Berlin today to be attacking through Austria into southern Bavaria and also in strength in western Germany in great daylight blows from bases in England.

The heavies struck [illegible] objectives in France [illegible] from west and south. Fair weather grounded the British bomb armada for the second night.

The Swiss told of planes flying over their eastern districts, sounding off sirens in Zurich, Schaffhausen and St. Moritz. The direction of their flight suggested that the goal was in the area of Munich, fourth largest Nazi city, a hub of five trunk railways and a manufacturing center for components of robot bombs.

There were no reports of night bombers operating from either Italy or Britain last night, but RAF homebased Mosquitoes patrolled the French battle area and shot down five German planes.

Weather reduced visibility to zero in some places over Cherbourg today, but deeper into France it was not so much, and some improvement was forecast.

Spotty weather limited American bombers based in Britain and Normandy to 2,500 effective sorties yesterday. These included strategic attacks by the U. S. army air forces and assaults by RAF heavy bombers ranging from Belgium to the bay of Biscay and deep into southern France, smashing bridges, railroad lines, enemy fuel and supply dumps and armored vehicles.

Ten German planes were destroyed in combat over France yesterday while 17 allied craft were lost.

134TH ARTILLERY CHECKED FOR DISEASE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3—The army's Fifth service command reported today that members of the 134th field artillery battalion of the 37th Ohio division, recently returned intact from the south Pacific, were under observation for filariasis, a tropical disease.

The command emphasized, however, that the disease had been found in only a "small percentage" of the 522 men now quartered at Camp Atterbury, Ind.

"The condition of none of the men is serious," a war department statement observed.

Most of the men will receive 21-day furloughs, after which they will be returned to a convalescent hospital, officers said, and a majority of them probably will be returned to duty in a short time, they added.

Filariasis, a department statement said, "is caused by a microscopic parasite, which is transmitted by several types of mosquitoes. . . . All the men just returned were evacuated after a comparatively short exposure to filariasis and there is little likelihood that the more serious consequences, including elephantiasis, will develop."

Allies Draft Plan for German Rule When Nazis Fall

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—Plans for immediate follow-up of the surrender or collapse of Germany are reported here to have been worked out in great detail.

Officials familiar with the provisions said today that they call for full cooperation among the United States, Britain and Russia in the hour of victory.

Early victory forecasts by Prime Minister Churchill yesterday brought a renewed wave of speculation here over what will happen if the Germans surrender first to the Russians, or what difference it will make if they give up instead to British-American forces.

The answer given to both questions in official quarters here is:

It will not make any difference. Neither side will make a "separate peace." Either side will accept Germany's unconditional surrender at any time or place accept it in the name of all the allied powers.

Britain and the United States pledged unconditional surrender at the Casablanca conference 18 months ago. Russia formally subscribed to it at Moscow. A further commitment by Stalin, Churchill and Roosevelt to joint action in peace and victory as well as in war was made at the Tehran conference.

The European advisory commission of British, American and Soviet representatives has completed plans covering two general periods:

1. The end of organized resistance. This may cover several days or even weeks or may come at a single orderly surrender.

2. Occupation. This provides for three-way occupation of Germany by British, Russian and American troops, joint occupation of Berlin, creation of a joint military commission to administer the country and means of getting civil authorities functioning again. Completion of the task of disarming Germany, including destruction or conversion of its armament factories, is called for.

The period of greatest confusion will be the first. Plans for this period, therefore, are reported to be general and to provide several alternatives.

The French are believed to have been the first to use the balloon in warfare.

Nazis' Nicknames for Enemy Troops Immortalize Them

By International News Service

... German-named ... and the war with repu... that of the famous ... pals" immortalized in ... poem.

... 1914 Kaiser Wilhelm ... flushed with early victories, called the first 100,000 English troops thrown into action "Old Contemptibles." Those "Old Contemptibles" fought indomitably and today throughout the British Empire the title commands the highest respect.

'Deseri Rats' Stopped Rommel

It was German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel who originated the term "Desert Rats" to describe the Australian Ninth Division.

Rommel was riding high in Africa; his then famous Korps seemed destined to sweep into Egypt.

Sneeringly he referred to the ... Ninth, then dug in at Tobruk, as "Desert Rats." It was those same "Desert Rats" who forced on the man who named them the military reverses that culminated in clearing Africa of Germans.

Today a "Desert Rat" deservedly has the reputation of being one of the world's toughest fighters.

The Germans, too, must receive credit for one of the proudest nicknames borne by U. S. Marines—"Devil Dogs."

Marines Did It

The fighting fury of the first Marines to see battle in World War I forced a complete German rout. Bewildered German intelligence officers, trying to ascertain what American units were responsible for the debacle, elicited from Alsatian troops only that they had been pitted against "Devil Dogs"—the name of fearful legendary creatures of German folklore. Thereafter to the Germans, Marines were "Devil Dogs."

"Old Contemptibles," "Desert Rats" and "Devil Dogs" today are among the immortal names of world military history.

Girl Reporter Gets a Taste of Life at Normandy Front

SHE COVERS THE WAR FRONT: Ruth Cowan in her uniform.

By RUTH COWAN
Associated Press Correspondent

ON THE NORMANDY BEACHHEAD — Why anyone who is scared of the dark and scared of firearms ever got themselves into the mess I did, I'll never understand.

But there I was at midnight, trying to get a little shuteye in a tent in a field which I wouldn't dare walk across in daylight because of mines.

I had said I wanted to go to war—and brother, I had it, as the British say.

It started out very simply.

Rena Billingham, former New York newspaperwoman now with Reuters, and I asked military permission to cross the channel in an LST.

It was to be a short trip. I didn't bother to bring a clean shirt—neither did Rena. When we get back to London we will have spent at least seven days and seven nights in the same shirts.

The suggestion was made that we go over on a liberty ship—no women war correspondents had before. We jumped at the chance.

Cabin Quarters Declined

The skipper was Capt. William Wilson, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a former exhibition parachute jumper. Gallantly he offered us his cabin—these ships are equipped to take tanks, trucks and troops, but not women war correspondents.

We declined because the skipper of a ship navigating dangerous waters needs his rest. We wanted to get here safe and dry, and bedded down in his office instead. I cat-napped on the floor with life preservers for a mattress.

We could see and hear flashes of gunfire as the ship lay at anchor on the eve of going ashore.

Came dawn. Arrangements were made for us to go ashore in a seagoing truck called a duck.

Rena was first overside. I peered down to the boat bobbing up and down 50 feet below. GI Joes, Army officers and members of the ship's crew crowded to the rail.

Accommodations Provided

Pvt. Lemuel Moore, of Savannah, Ga., Negro pilot-driver of the seagoing truck and a former laundry worker, tried to keep the launch close to the ship. His eyes were as big as saucers as he saw a woman coming down. Cpl. DeWitt Moore, of Detroit, Mich., a truck driver, grinned and held the ladder steady.

Rena made it amid cheers. Then I moved to the rail. The ship's first mate, Otto Brush of New York city, put a rope around me. I eased over the side—not daring to look down.

Finding that first rung was awful. From out of the crowd of onlookers came a cheering voice, "You'll make it." I finally did, and our strange vehicle named "Leopold" shoved off.

Ashore we explored the beachhead under escort. That night the problem was where to sleep. Rena said she always wanted to try a foxhole—and there were plenty of vacant ones. I don't like spiders and bugs that consider the earth theirs. For this sefue they put up a cot in a spare hospital tent.

Gunfire Starts

I had barely wrapped myself up in a blanket when nearby guns opened fire. I got used to these and decided they were friends when more and louder ones opened up. Then I heard planes.

I speculated a little on the value of a canvas tent as protection against flak and got down under the cot, tipping my helmet over my face.

The sharp crack of a rifle sounded close. Suddenly it occurred to me that we were not very far from the front line. The Germans might be trying to filter back. Never have I stayed so still.

Finally toward morning I got back on the cot. Then the planes came—waves and waves of them. They flew on and soon the ground was reverberating to Allied bombs dropped behind German lines.

Then I went to sleep.

Service at Caledonia Sponsored by Gideons

A patriotic service will be held in Memorial Methodist church at Caledonia Sunday at 8 p. m. sponsored by the Gideons, Christian Business Men's organization, donor of Bibles to hotels, hospitals, schools and to men and women in the armed forces.

The chaplain at Camp Millard near Bucyrus will speak and Caledonia Post No. 401, American Legion, will "advance the colors" in the opening service. Attending besides members of the Legion post will be members of the Marion camp of Gideons of which Kenneth B. Connolly is president, women of the Caledonia Legion auxiliary and parents and near relatives of those on the church honor roll. A name added recently to the roll is that of John R. McCutchen, son of Rev. R. S. McCutchen, adjutant of the Legion post and pastor of the church.

Special music is being arranged by Mrs. John Salisbury, church choir director, the Builders class which is sponsoring sending of gifts to servicemen, and Patsy and Peggy Irey of Caledonia will sing.

PFC. JOHN F. RUHL

Pfc. John F. Ruhl, of Washington C. H., son of Mrs. Edith Spitzer and stepson of William Spitzer of 136 Clover avenue, was killed in action June 25, according to word received by his wife, Mrs. Nellie Rockwell Ruhl of Washington C. H. Pfc. Ruhl had been stationed with the infantry overseas since April this year.

In service for the last eight months, he landed in England and when last heard from was stationed in France. He was the father of a son, Paul Evan, whom he had never seen except in an incubator at the hospital. Pfc. Ruhl is also survived by two sisters, six brothers, two stepbrothers and three stepsisters.

An item on Pfc. Ruhl appeared in the Star when the family was notified by the war department that he had been killed.

Two Men Sentenced on Charge of Theft

Cyrus N. One-Time Capone Aid Shot Down in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—Lawrence (Dago) Mangano, once listed as a public enemy and long known to the police as a gambling chieftain and aid to the onetime gang chief, Al Capone, was shot and fatally wounded today as he sat in an automobile on the West Side.

Wounded with him was one Mike Pontelli who was taken, suffering from bullet wounds of the chest and lower body, to the Bridewell hospital where Mangano, similarly punctured, died shortly before 6 a. m.

Policeman Joseph Schinker said that when he arrived at the scene Pontelli was slumped in the car, Mangano had crawled to the sidewalk and collapsed and standing over him was a pretty brunette who identified herself as Mrs. Rita Reyes and said she had been sitting with the men in the car. Unhurt, she was held for questioning without charge.

SENATE COMMITTEE FACES TOUGH TASK

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3 — The senate military committee set out today on the tough job of figuring what sort of unemployment compensation rates should be paid to discharged war workers.

The controversial issue overshadowed all others as Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky sent out a call to absent senators to be in their seats next week to tackle the unprecedented problems of demobilization, reconversion and surplus property disposal.

The White House entered the picture with an appeal to congressional leaders by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes to hurry the legislation along.

The senate finance committee beat the military group to the punch yesterday by voting unanimous approval of a bill by Chairman George (D-Ga) to leave jobless compensation rates to the states, but Senator Kilgore (D-WVa) said he would carry to the floor a proposal to set up federal standards calling for payments ranging from $12 to $35 a week.

Kilgore's proposition is part of an over-all bill which would give to a proposed director of war mobilization an adjustment jurisdiction over the program of war production, transition and demobilization.

It was substantially approved in a report of a military subcommittee majority—Chairman Murray (D-Mont) and Senator Truman (D-Mo)—over the vigorous dissent of Senator Revercomb (R-W. Va.), who said it would cost in the neighborhood of $24,000,000,000 a year.

The George proposal, designed to separate the unemployment compensation phase from other features of reconversion, would make government employed workers in arsenals and shipyards eligible for benefits now provided by state laws, and set up a federal loan fund from which states could borrow to maintain the solvency of their own insurance funds.

George said he would call it up on the floor Tuesday.

Highway Division Engineer Appointed

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3—State Highway Director Ha. G. Scarlett today announced the appointment of Robert C. Monnett of Ashland as acting chief engineer in highway division 3, comprising Richland, Lorain, Erie, Huron, Ashland, Wayne, Crawford and Medina counties.

Monnett, since 1940 assistant division engineer, will succeed Vance Grimes who was appointed a traveling engineer with headquarters in Columbus.

Monnett joined the highway department in 1933 as an assistant engineer and shortly afterward was promoted to traffic and safety engineer.

He is 34 years old, married and has two children.

Will Women in Industry Keep Jobs? Leader Says Yes

MARGARET HICKEY
Can Speak for Women Workers

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Writer

Margaret Hickey, new president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women and chairman of the Woman's Policy Committee of the War Manpower Commission, says women are in industry to stay.

"Women have created the same place for themselves in industry in this war that they did in the business world in the last war," she said just after her election to head 80,000 of the country's leading women in business and the professions. "A lot of them have come to like it and want to stay in it. They have proved themselves useful and made a place for themselves. Industry is adapting itself to the women and their working conditions are growing steadily better. And after the war hundreds of thousands of women will have to earn money.

"Of coure many women will leave industry as the war picture changes. Many have already gone—some because they were dropped, others because they chose to go. We are coming to the place where we will have a surplus of women in war work. The demand for women in industry will decrease in the next year or two. But there is nothing alarming about it.

"After the defeat of Japan we shall move into a replenishment period when we shall be replacing the houses we have not built, the household equipment, shoes, tools and many other things we have not been making. In that great industrial period there will be a great deal of work for women.

Miss Hickey is one of the few women of the country who can speak with authority for all classes of women workers—industrial, business and professional. In her address to the New York convention which elected her president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, she strongly advocated the expansion of its membership to include women workers in war industries. (The federation gave its first charter to a group of industrial workers—in Seattle—in June.)

She is a good-looking, fair-skinned, friendly middle-westerner with dark eyes, iron gray hair and a bright smile. In private life she is Mrs. Joseph Strubinger, wife of a St. Louis lawyer.

She went into the business world during the last war and by 1923 climbed into an office manager's job. Then she decided to study law. She was graduated from the Kansas City University Law School, was admitted to the Missouri bar in 1928 and practised law for a time in St. Louis. During the depression years she became tremendously impressed with the number of women who lost jobs in hard times and was convinced that the reason was largely due to faulty training and faulty job outlook on their part. So she left law practice and started a training school for secretaries and business women which she now runs in St. Louis. In her job with the War Manpower Commission, she heads the first war-time committee of American women which settles important policy. She and her committee of 11 women leaders of labor and industry helped recruit millions of women for war production. They iron out problems of their training, placement, and working conditions. Now they are at work on problems of transition from war to peace.

ATHLETES FOOT GERM

HOW TO KILL IT

The germ grows deeply. To kill it, you must reach it. At any drug store, get Te-ol solution. Made with 90% alcohol, it PENETRATES, REACHES MORE GERMS. Feel it take hold. Apply FULL STRENGTH for itchy, sweaty or smelly feet. 25c today at Eckerd's Drug Store.—Adv.

Capt. S. R. LaTona, M. C. who heads a medical unit of the First armored division says, "What we must have is more and more plasma close to the front—in fact as far forward as possible. That's where plasma can be most valuable, right on the scene of combat. For that's the only way we can save lives, by using it quickly."

We have the tires proven by

3 BILLION MILES

B. F. Goodrich all-synthetic Silvertowns

IF ANYONE still has doubts about tires built with man-made rubber, here's clear-cut performance proof: by the most conservative estimate, essential drivers have already rolled over 3 billion miles on B. F. Goodrich all-synthetic Silvertowns.

Letters have come in from drivers all over the country reporting complete satisfaction. Most of them have expressed confidence that all-synthetic Silvertowns will give at least as much mileage as pre-war tires.

The 80,000,000-mile road test was the first proof that B. F. Goodrich could build high-performance tires with synthetic rubber. The test started almost two years before Pearl Harbor when B. F. Goodrich sold tires in which more than half the rubber was synthetic. They were the first synthetic tires ever offered for sale to the American public. Building and testing them gave B. F. Goodrich the valuable backlog of experience which is now showing up in the performance of today's all-synthetic Silvertowns.

So, see us at once if you are eligible for new tires. If inspection shows that you need new tires, we will fill out and handle your application for these proven B. F. Goodrich Silvertowns.

Mrs Jaunita Williams was hostess to the Helping Hand club with devotion conducted by the hostess. Responses to roll call were "How Embarrassed I Was" and for entertainment a white elephant exchange was held. The annual picnic will be at the home of Mrs Williams, Aug. 24 and regular meetings will be discontinued until after vacation.

College Teaches Youngsters Aviation As Prelude To Peace

FLEDGLING—Lafayette College teaches boys too young for the Army Air Corps to fly as a peacetime project. Here Sandor Rubin of Brooklyn gets his first lesson at Easton airport.

By The Associated Press

EASTON, Pa.—Too young for Army Air Forces but old enough for the rigorous training that air cadets receive, 50 boys, 14 to 17 years old, are learning aviation at Lafayette College, literally from the ground up.

They do more than fly, these youngsters selected from more than 1,000 who applied when the college announced its new and probably unique program.

In hot classrooms they spend their summer "vacation" sweating out navigation, meteorology, higher mathematics and the other abstruse subjects an airman must know.

They thrive on it, too. "A more enthusiastic and intelligent group of boys could not be found," says Prof. Paul B. Eaton, former technical adviser to the Chinese government who directs the program.

Flying instructor Edwin Braden concurs: "They learn fast, much faster than we did when we were boys."

The boys, who come from many parts of the country and live at the college, do their flying afternoons at the Easton airport. If any are scared, they'd die rather than confess it. Some were ready after a few lessons to solo but none is old enough to qualify for a license and none is allowed to go up without an instructor.

This aviation program is a development of Lafayette's boys engineering guidance conference, founded in 1934 to help youngsters discover their aptitudes and give them the right start toward careers.

Lafayette tries only to give the boys a basis for later training. It tries to make the process pleasant, too. There are sports, theatricals and campfires when the day's flying and studying are over.

The first human to ascend in a balloon was J. F. Piatre de Rozier in France in 1783.

Chicken Cream Gravy, Boiled New Potatoes, Mashed Squash, Waldorf Salad Lemon Cheese Cakes Iced Tea or Coffee

Fried Chicken

Salt, pepper, a little flour a little cold water 1 chicken, ½ cup lard and butter mixed

Clean chicken and cut into convenient pieces for serving. Dip each piece into the water, then into flour, salt and pepper sifted together, shaking off all that does not cling to the chicken. Heat butter and lard in frying pan and cook pieces of chicken slowly that they may be done through, turning often while cooking. Keep hot until all are done. You may prefer not to dip the chicken in water first but only into flour, working it into the meat so that it is actually absorbed by the flesh. This makes a delicate crisp brown crust.

Chicken Mold

1 cup cold cooked chicken, Salt and pepper 1 egg 1 cup chicken stock, 2 tsp. gelatine

Chop or rub chicken through food chopper season and add egg yolk to it. Heat the stock in which the gelatin has been dissolved. Beat cold in the beaten egg white, and turn into a mold. When cold turn out and slice thinly.

CARE OF CASTERS

A thin coat of wax applied to furniture casters keeps them from sticking to floors in hot coms. A little wax applied to the caster sockets keeps them turning easily in damp weather.

Dies Committee Lists 15 PAC Aids Once U. S. Officials

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—The Dies committee made public yesterday the names of fifteen men and women identified as prominent in activities of the CIO Political Action Committee and formerly government officials.

The list was prepared by Robert E. Stripling, chief committee investigator, from data obtained by the committee during its investigation of the PAC. Most of the fifteen, Stripling said, resigned their government jobs only recently.

Heading the list was R. ... Baldwin, assistant chairman of the PAC and former head of the farm security administration.

The others on the list:

Charlotte Carr, New York director for the PAC, formerly with the war manpower commission.

C. A. McPeak, Texas PAC director, formerly with the war production board.

George S. Mitchell, southern PAC director, formerly assistant head of the farm security administration.

Amer Lehman, PAC director for Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Utah and Arizona, formerly with the Farm Security Administration.

Raymond S. McKeough, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin PAC director, former member of congress and regional OPA director.

Lessa Bronson, Los Angeles PAC office, formerly with the library of congress.

Joseph Gaer, PAC research expert, formerly with the treasury department.

Smil Corwin, PAC radio director, formerly with the agriculture department.

Clark Foreman, secretary of the National Citizens Political Action Committee, formerly with the public works administration.

Sidney Hillman, PAC chairman, formerly with the office for production management.

Thomas Burns, assistant to Hillman, formerly with the office of production management.

... Perry, PAC publicity director, formerly OPA investigator in New Hampshire.

Vonta Barnes, director of the PAC women's division, formerly assistant director of information in the war manpower commission.

Thomas R. ... head of the PAC research division, former member of congress and once nominated by the President for membership on the interstate commerce commission.

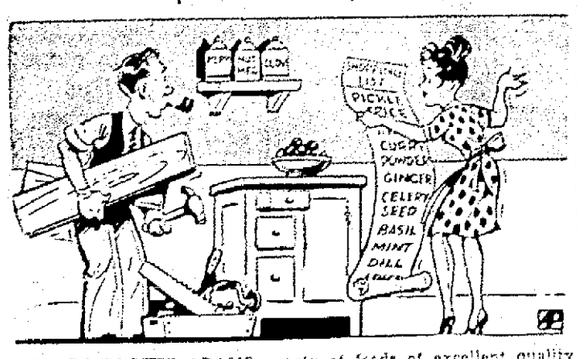
Build Up Your Spice Shelf



By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Recently another editor asked me whether I thought that all of you who read my recipes had on your shelves the various spices and herbs which those recipes frequently call for. I said, no, I didn't suppose so. Then I went on to explain why I continue to use them anyway, which explanation I would now like to give to you.

The use of spices and herbs contributes greatly to the interest and palatability of the foods you serve at your table. Very few of these flavoring agents are familiar to most of us Americans. That's largely because such a wide variety of foods of excellent quality have been available to us for a long time that it wasn't particularly important for us to enhance their original goodness.

Since the war started, though we haven't suffered much, we have had to buy and cook foods of quality inferior to that which we have taken for granted. Flavor from outside sources has become more important. Two hurdles stand in our way. We're not accustomed to supplying our kitchens with shelves full of spice and herb magic. It sounds like a considerable expense to most of us to equip ourselves with all those little bottles. The second trouble is that we don't know how to use spices and herbs.

I suggest that you put aside from your food budget even as little as five cents a week toward the purchase of herbs and spices. They're not very costly and a little of any of them lasts a long time. Keep them in tightly stoppered jars or bottles and they'll retain flavor longer than you'd expect.

Here's a list of herbs and spices which I think should be on all well-supplied shelves. I have listed them in what seems to me to be the order of their importance.

Spices: Peppers (black, red, white), Curry Powder, Allspice, Nutmeg, Ginger (powdered and root), Clove (powdered and whole) Chili Powder, Pickle Spice, Mace (blade and ground), Celery Seed, Mustard.

Herbs: Basil, Marjoram, Fines Herbs, Oregano, Rosemary, Thyme, Tarragon, Bay Leaves, Dill, Mint, Poultry Seasoning.

Many of the spices you can use either in their whole form or powdered. I urge you, if you never have to test the delight of freshly ground pepper. It has infinitely more flavor and is less sharp than the kind you buy already ground.

It may surprise you to see that curry powder comes second on my list of spices. Curry sauce is a delightful one and offers a fine way to dress up left-over meat or vegetables. But what most people don't realize is that curry powder is a blend of several spices, and used in tiny pinches in almost any sauce or dressing you can name it lends only a suspicion of interesting flavor which no one can spot simply from having known hot curries. Try it, for instance, in a French dressing this way:

French Dressing

2 tablespoons wine vinegar, ½ teaspoon curry powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 drops Worcestershire Sauce, 6 tablespoons salad oil, freshly ground black pepper.

Mix vinegar, curry powder, salt and Worcestershire Sauce. Slowly beat in the oil, pouring it in a fine stream. Add a generous grinding of black pepper. Let stand a half hour before adding to greens, so that flavors blend well.

Here is the secret of herb and spice seasoning—use it in minute quantities. Subtlety of flavor is what you want.

Pleasant Twp. School Shop Bids To Be Taken

The Pleasant township board of education is advertising for bids for construction of the farm work shop, funds for which were authorized at a special bond issue vote taken in the May primary election. The bids will be opened Aug. 24 at the school.

Detailed plans for the building are on file with Paul W. Augenstein of near Marion, clerk of the board, and with the board's architect, Thomas W. Rayburn.

The building will house a farm work shop and vocational training shop at the school and in addition to providing increased space for those activities will release some rooms now being used for those purposes for school expansion needs.

Garden Tips

Young Gardener Prize Contests

By The Associated Press

In connection with a recent suggestion that children be permitted to have their own victory garden plots, an interesting competition among youngsters, to stimulate interest in vegetable growing has been disclosed in a community near New York. This far, about 40 boys and girls have entered the competition and some worthwhile crops are being produced.

A few days after summer school vacation started, a committee of parents discussed the possibility of getting children to take care of their own gardens. Other parents joined the movement, and about 25 families contributed a dollar each to a fund for prizes.

This fund is to be augmented in another way. Just before school reopens in September, a children's fair will be staged in a neighborhood park with adults and older children paying ten cents admission. Tables are to be set up, and children will be permitted to stage as many exhibits as they wish.

Prizes will be awarded for the largest tomatoes, the biggest squash, the best head of lettuce, the choicest beans, the finest cucumbers and other classes. Ribbons and war stamps will be the rewards.

The competition is in two sections—one for boys and girls under 11 and the other for older children. In the older group entrants must submit essays of 150 words on the care of a victory garden.

The test has spread throughout the community, and parents of other neighborhoods plan to stage the contest competition next year. Mothers are all for the idea, because in many cases children who formerly disliked certain vegetables are eating them—and liking them.

And the most important point of all is that, aside from keeping youngsters off the streets, the project is developing a children's love for the soil and is aiding the war effort.

Zanesville Pitcher Sets Marion Cubs Down Twice in Doubleheader

Breitbach Wins Two Games by 7-1 and 7-5 Scores.

Special to The Star

ZANESVILLE, O., Aug. 3—With Tom Breitbach going the entire route, the Zanesville Dodgers swept both ends of a double-header from the Marion Cubs here last night.

The Dodgers took the first game 7 to 1 and copped the nightcap 7 to 5.

The double victory gave the Dodgers a 2 to 1 edge over the Cubs in the current six-game series.

After having a comparatively easy time in the first tilt, Breitbach was touched for two runs in the second and two in the third in the nightcap. His mates however came up with a four-run uprising in the fourth canto to tie it up.

The Dodgers took a one run lead in the fifth but Marion tied it up in their half of the sixth only to have Zanesville snap back with two runs, the necessary edge to win the game.

Breitbach had a much easier time in the opening contest, mainly because his teammates gave him a five-run lead in the first inning.

The two teams will resume their series tonight with a single contest scheduled for 8:15 p. m.

Breitbach Claims "Iron Man" Title

Tom Breitbach, Zanesville Dodger's 20-year-old right hander, became the Ohio State league's latest "iron man" when he won both games of the Zanesville-Marion, bill last night. Breitbach hails from Dubuque, Ia.

Breitbach, who is playing his first year in professional baseball, trained this spring with the St. Paul American Association club. His pitching record with the fifth place Dodgers now stands at 11 games won and seven lost. He has taken part in 58 games, however, performing in the outfield and once at shortstop. Breitbach has a .206 batting average.

TOLEDO WINS FOURTH STRAIGHT GAME FROM MILWAUKEE BREWERS

Columbus Whips Blues in Opener but Drops Last of Doubleheader.

By The Associated Press

Earl Caldwell's campaign to enter the exclusive 20-game victory circle in the American Association this season got a slight snag last night when Toledo's Mud Hens punched across six runs in the sixth inning to upset Milwaukee 8 to 5 for their fourth straight over the leading Brewers.

Caldwell was shooting for his fifth triumph and ninth in a row. It was his third setback but he still tops the circuit in victories.

Things might have been different had not catcher Jimmy Pruett been called upon to fill in at third base for the Brewers' injured Bill Nagle. Although he partially redeemed himself with a homer and two singles, Pruett committed three consecutive errors in the fatal sixth to hand the second-place Hens four unearned runs. Caldwell left the premises during the uprising, having yielded a total of six hits.

Toledo's win, credited to Al Lamacchia, cut the Brewers' lead to eight and one-half games.

Mel Deutsch, Louisville's 6 ft. 4 in. right-hander, set St. Paul down with two hits—a single and a double—in recording his 11th victory by a 4-1 margin in the opener of a double-header. The Saints came back in the nightcap with a 12-hit barrage off George Diehl to win 11 to 5 and push the Colonels two games out of second place.

Sagging Columbus, an early pennant threat but now far behind the Brewers in fourth spot, downed the tail-end Kansas City Blues 2 to 1 on the four-hit hurling of Ken Burkhart. Then the Blues retaliated in the second half of the double bill as pitcher Charles Carter hung up an 8 to 5 triumph.

Ragged Indianapolis fielding contributed to the Indians' double defeat by Minneapolis, with Otis Clark and Hale Swanson each going the route for 7-2 and 7-3 Miller victories.

Indians Take on Sox, Their 1944 Jinx Team

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 — Cleveland's Indians start their last extended trip of the season by playing a double header today with the Chicago White Sox, the club that has beaten them more times than any other entry in the league.

The Chisox lost 15 of 22 games with the Tribesmen last season but have been victorious in nine of 12 engagements this year.

Allie Reynolds and Al Smith hurl for Cleveland today with Bill Dietrich and Buck Ross opposing them. Manager Lou Boudreau announced he would start Mel Harder in the final game of the series Friday and would use Ed Klieman, Steve Gromek and Jim Bagby in the three-game series against the pace-setting St. Louis Browns Saturday and Sunday.

Following the set against the Browns, the Indians open their last eastern swing in Philadelphia next Wednesday.

Reds Star, Rejected by Giants, Hits Homers Over Their Fence

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—Ten years ago, scouts shook their heads after watching him play and sadly exclaimed "he never will do," but today Frank McCormick of the Cincinnati Reds is rated the best first baseman in the major leagues.

Before he signed his first professional contract, McCormick worked out mornings with the New York Giants and was advised by them that if he had a job he had best stick to it.

The six-foot-four-inch Redleg, who makes his home in New York, caused veteran experts to lift their eyebrows with his unorthodox stance at the plate, but that didn't stop Larry MacPhail from bringing him to Cincinnati.

In his first full year with the Reds, 1938, McCormick made 209 hits in 640 at bats, both high for the loop, and batted .326. He joined the select group of players who made 200 or more hits in their freshman year. The next year he duplicated his 209-hit total to again lead the league in that department and drove in the most runs, 128.

In 1940, he added the doubles title and for the third time in succession led the league in hits.

In his first five years with the Reds, McCormick drove in 617 runs, more than any of the other top sluggers of the circuit in the corresponding period, including Johnny Mize, Mel Ott, Dolph Camilli, Chuck Klein and Frank Demaree. McCormick has the unique distinction of being selected for the National league all-star team in each of his seven years in the majors.

This year Frank got off to a bad start. After hovering around the .270 mark for the first half of the season, he staged a batting spree to climb to a point over .300. In the past two weeks, he made 22 hits in 64 times at bat for a .344 average and batted in 21 runs.

Most of his lufty hitting has been done against the Giants. In the six-game series just ended, McCormick personally was responsible for all three Reds' victories, belting five homers and driving in 13 teammates.

A wrist hitter, who depends mostly on singles and doubles, he can offer no explanation for his recent home run slugging.

"I don't believe in swinging from the heels. It makes it easier for the pitchers to work on you. Singles and doubles get you on base and as long as they drive in runs, what's the difference? But somehow when I come to the Polo grounds, those short fences look so inviting—I unconsciously begin to cowtail every pitch."

Maybe he's thinking of the Giant officials who turned thumbs down on him 10 years ago.

NEWARK STRETCHES LEAD TO FOUR GAMES

Newark gained a game over Springfield in the race for the Ohio State league lead by defeating Springfield, 5 to 1.

The second place team is now four games below top spot. Middletown lost to Lima last night and slipped to a five and one-half game margin. Fourth place Lima remains 11½ games in the red. Zanesville is 14½ games behind after defeating Marion in a double-header. Marion remains in last place, 21½ games standing between bottom and top positions.

Line scores of games played last night not involving Marion follow:

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 — With the Brooklyn Dodgers in the midst of a six-game series with the Cardinals, and the Cleveland Browns out front in the American pennant race, the impression is growing that anything can happen in baseball.

We, however, are reserving opinion on the "anything can happen" angle until Brick Lemon's Leads the league in stolen bases.

Max Lanier Fans 104 To Take Top Rating in Both League

By The Associated Press

Max Lanier of the St. Louis Cards was retired as strikeout king of the majors today with a total of 104 victims boosting him past Bill Voiselle of the New York Giants and Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox.

The portly lefthander threw the opposition past seven Pittsburgh batters last night as the Cards hammered out an 8-4 verdict to up their road trip win record to 15-3 with three to go before reaching Sportsman's Park.

Hughson is pacing the American league with 99.

The largest night crowd of the year at Forbes Field gathered to watch the Cards defeat Sewell for six runs and before the sleeper was yanked for a pinch hitter Sewell's fourth straight by the Cards.

If the Cards can break even in their remaining 58 games they place Cincinnati could win the flag only by winning 48 and to gain some 200 points over 1944 norm.

With Lanier, Mort[y], Harry Brecheen and Ted [W]illiams working smoothly as the Birds there was little doubt that the Red Birds would hit the mark with plenty to spare.

As St Louis snuffed out Pittsburgh's smouldering hopes of a start of a long home stand, the American league pennant race marked time.

Chicago split a doubleheader with Philadelphia in the only action scheduled in the junior circuit.

The Mackmen pulled the opener out of the fire, 9-8, on a three-run ninth inning. Lum Harris picked up with his ninth win after being clubbed for 13 hits as his mates clubbed Ed Lopat for 10 runs and his seventh loss.

Gordy Maltzberger saved Jonny Humphries' fifth win of the season by stopping a Philadelphia threat as Chicago took a 7-5 decision.

A Chicago-Philadelphia game was postponed because of rain. Philadelphia transportation strikers and all other leaguers enjoyed an open date.

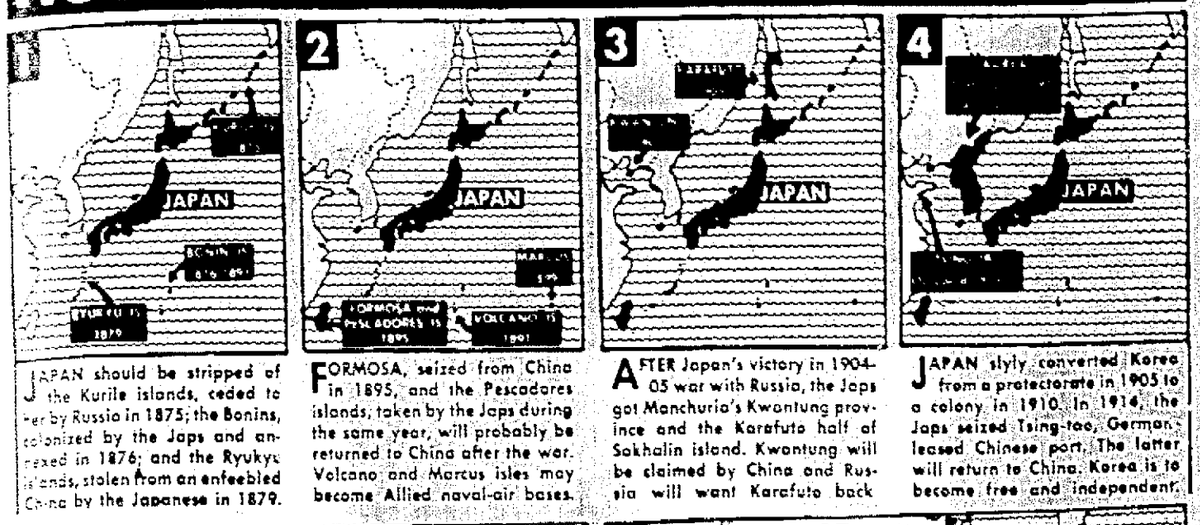
HOW JAPS WILL LOSE STOLEN EMPIRE



JAPAN should be stripped of the Kurile islands, ceded to her by Russia in 1875; the Bonins, colonized by the Japs and annexed in 1876; and the Ryukyu islands, stolen from an enfeebled China by the Japanese in 1879.

FORMOSA, seized from China in 1895, and the Pescadores islands, taken by the Japs during the same year, will probably be returned to China after the war. Volcano and Marcus isles may become Allied naval-air bases.

AFTER Japan's victory in 1904-05 war with Russia, the Japs got Manchuria's Kwantung province and the Karafuto half of Sakhalin island. Kwantung will be claimed by China and Russia will want Karafuto back.

JAPAN slyly converted Korea from a protectorate in 1905 to a colony in 1910. In 1914, the Japs seized Tsing-tao, German leased Chinese port. The latter will return to China. Korea is to become free and independent.

JAPAN reaped a greedy reward for her participation in World War I on the side of the Allies. In 1920, Germany's Marianas, Caroline, and Marshall islands were turned over to the Japs under a mandate. This time, America may claim rights to these vital bases.

IN the 1930's, Japan began her big-time aggressions with the invasion of Manchuria in 1931, occupation of neighboring Jehol in 1933, invasion of China proper in 1937, annexation of Hainan and Spratley isles in 1939. Shaded area shows present Jap hold on China.

POST-WAR Japan will be but a shadow of its former self. In addition to the loss of all territories she acquired in years past, she will lose the rich empire she seized in the southwest Pacific and southern Asia. Present Jap-held area in these regions is shown in the adjoining map. When the Allies finish stripping Japan of her ill-gotten gains, there will be no such thing as a Jap empire. All that will be left of Japan will be her original chain of home islands as indicated in inset map. They will be subject to vigilant Allied bases on every side.

Cincinnati To Play Springfield for Title

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., Aug. 3—Undefeated Cincinnati meets Springfield this afternoon in the Ohio finals of the American Legion junior baseball championships.

Springfield yesterday walloped Leavittsburgh 6-2 to enter the championship play, largely due to a seventh-inning outburst which accounted for four runs. The winners were outhit 11 to 9.

On the basis of past performances, Cincinnati is favored to win. The Queen City team already holds a 17-2 decision over Springfield, gained Tuesday in the second round of play.

The tourney is being conducted on the double elimination basis, two losses being needed to eliminate a team.

Vander Meer Opposes His Old Mates Today

NOTES FROM THE CLUBHOUSE

WITH AP SPORTS WRITERS

By CHIP ROYAL
AP Features Sports Editor

BOSTON — Connie Mack once called Jimmy Foxx "the greatest all-around player the game has ever known."

Quote the venerable A's manager:

"Jimmy had what it takes to be a great all-around player. He had natural athletic coordination, great speed and great hands."

Recently there was a small item at the bottom of the sports pages saying the Chicago Cubs had removed Foxx from the active players' list and relegated him to the status of bull pen catcher.

All of which moved an old friend, Lou Mandell, sports columnist of the Cranston, R. I., Herald to write the following:

"It is always a touching and peculiar thing that when a great sports figure sadly casts aside his playing gear and steps out of active competition to join the Sidelines Society there is scant tribute paid for past deeds well done and for years of honest sweat and toil.

JIMMY FOXX

The usual newspaper treatment of such a great name is the setting of a begrudged stick or two of type.

Story Is Buried

"The story is then buried in a corner of those same sports pages which once were emblazoned with eight-column streamers proclaiming his heroics at the plate, and almost life-size pictures, as well as detailed accounts of what the Great One ate for breakfast.

"Jimmy Foxx—the Great Double XX—is a perfect illustration of this fleeting grasp on fame in the sports world. After more than 18 years of major league service, Chimmie was recently removed from the active player list of the Chicago Cubs. He was washed-out, sidetracked to make room for a younger player.

"Sure Jimmy will still be around the fringe of the game he played to win a few lines in the record books. He will stick to the Cubs as a bullpen catcher and coach, both very important jobs but comparable to retiring a great race horse to pasture.

"A three-time winner of the American league's most valuable player award, Foxx saw little service with the Cubs this year. When he stepped to the plate, Chimmie was a cipher—he was as tragic as a lamb in a slaughter house. This player, who was home run champion three times, once a co-champ, and twice runner-up for the title, made one solitary bingle for a miserable .053 in 19 tries. What a comedown for a man who boasts a lifetime batting average of .328.

"Truly, The Double XX should have stood in bed. He was like a man in a trance. No longer did he slap the rubber and wave his mighty war club menacingly at opposing pitchers. No longer did Chimmie cavort around first base, scooping throws out of the dirt while delicately dancing around the bag and dipping his toes under flying spikes for putouts.

"When Foxx first won the home run title in 1932, he fashioned 58 round trippers for Philadelphia. Babe Ruth's still-standing record is 60 homers. Jimmy hit 48 four-masters in 1933—and in both years he led the mighty Ruth. He tied with Hank Greenberg at 36 in 1935 and four years later again paced the league, this time with 35 homers for the Red Sox. He was runner-up in 1934 and 1940—and he earned two more lines in the record book with the league batting championships of 1933 and 1939.

"Such is the story of Jimmy Foxx. Like many another baseball luminary, he did not leave well enough alone. His lifetime batting average did not swell during the abortive comeback—and the fans probably will recall, in days to come, that the Great Double XX was a flop at the plate in his last season.

"Foxx could have learned from Ruth's experience—but it is a certainty he did not."

PEACE STOCKS SCORE GAINS

But Many Leaders Stumble as Traders Turn Cautious on War News.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—A few peace stocks continued to make a little headway now and then in today's market but many leaders stumbled.

Caution was the watchword in boardrooms as customers either trimmed accounts or bought sparingly of issues that might benefit if the Nazis should suddenly surrender.

Occasional resistance as shown by American Telephone, Delaware & Hudson, Southern Pacific and Kennecott. Laggards included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Santa Fe, Anaconda, Westinghouse and Douglas Aircraft.

HOSPITAL CHIEF DIES

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 3—Dr. Robert Lenox Barnes, 58, chief of staff at Mt. Carmel hospital here, died last night after having been ill for a year. He suffered a cerebral hemorrhage in June, 1943. Dr. Barnes was born in Washington C. H. He is survived by the widow, the former Mazie McCafferty of Washington C. H. and a sister, Miss Mary Barnes, also of Washington C. H.

TIME IS MARKED BY GRAIN TRADERS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—There was little trading in grain futures today as operators marked time awaiting war developments and additional information regarding crop conditions.

Resting orders steadied wheat prices and local traders took the limited offerings to cover short lines.

Continued dry weather in the eastern corn belt discouraged sellers in the rye pit. Some short covering was apparent at the opening and prices held steady until near the close when offerings dried up and the market turned strong.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

THE Passengers from the incoming eastern Long Island train came into the waiting room and spread out in all directions, as if, I told myself, they were a human tidal wave. The first were young men and women who had outdistanced the others by strength and impatience. Then followed the others, among whom I expected to see the three Nazi agents for whom we were looking.

Common sense and reason told me that the three men, although anxious to get into the station as soon as possible, would not draw undue attention to themselves by appearing in the van of the travelers. They would be able to check on the few people who preceded them, and then, when they had reached a vantage point in the station, could look the rest of their fellow passengers over at their leisure.

Would Not Be Together

I was sure, also, that they would not appear together, nor would they go near each other while they were in the station. Therefore I made my eyes travel as swiftly as possible from one figure to another of the rapidly appearing, and disappearing, passengers.

Then, at last, I saw a man with dark glasses and a moustache come through the gate, and drift aimlessly to a position where he could see the rest of the people as they came through the gates. I studied his features quickly but carefully, and pressed the arm of the FBI man once.

"I see him," he said, prison fashion. "Keep on watching!"

I obeyed him; indeed, my eyes were still traveling over the faces of the incoming travelers. But from the corner of one of my eyes, I saw his right hand go up and do something with his hat—I did not dare to look closely enough to see just what his action was—but I knew that he had given some sort of signal to his two associates standing close to my two boys.

Second Appears

Then the second of the Nazi agents appeared, taking up a position as far away as possible from the first. Again my recognition was quick and certain, and I pressed the arm of my escort twice, eliciting from him the same response, and, I observed covertly, the same signal.

"Good work, so far!" he muttered to me. "Now for the real kill. My trailer is only a few steps from me. He can get busy at once, and we can get out of here."

My nerves were tensed almost to the breaking point when I saw the leader of the Nazi agents, disguised as "Mr. X" had said he would be, come through the gate and halt at a spot much nearer to the incoming throng—and to us—than his confederates had chosen.

That his eyes behind the dark glasses were studying the face of every woman approximating my height and weight, I was sure, as I pressed the arm of my escort three times, and taking my own eyes from the rest of the passengers, watched the Nazi leader from behind my own disguising glasses.

Thrill of Satisfaction

My work was ended, I thought with a little thrill of satisfaction as I saw the trailer who had been standing near my F. B. I. escort walk with apparent aimlessness to a position behind the Nazi agent, but distinctly nearer to him.

But my satisfaction quickly changed to terror. I saw the leader of the Nazis give a little start, so infinitesimal that if I had not been watching him closely, I never would have seen it. Then, although I could not see his eyes, I felt that they were turned full upon me, inspecting me from head to foot.

That my escort and my father saw it too, I realized when both men said, prison fashion "Steady!" and my father put his hand protectively beneath my elbow.

I did not answer. I dared not. Nor did I move a muscle while his inspection continued. Then he wheeled, and walked rapidly away, not toward any exit, but, instead toward the interior of the station.

"We might as well see where he's going," the F. B. I. man said. Then he spoke over his shoulder to somebody behind him.

"Arnold," he said, "Did you see that fellow with the vandyke?"

Don't Lose Track

"Don't lose track of him, and tell Stebbins to lay off. The Nazis probably spotted him. Get as many as you need to help you, and have one of them report to me."

"Okay," a voice replied. "I'll pick up Smitty on the way."

"Good!" the F. B. I. man replied, walking me rapidly, as he spoke, toward the rapidly retreating figure of the Nazi leader.

"I always park an extra ace or two," he said, with pardonable satisfaction. "Never know when you'll need one."

We could see the Nazi agent plainly now. He was hurrying through one of the main corridors of the building, then turned a corner, and stopped suddenly before a Western Union booth. He took up a blank and busied himself with writing a message. I saw that the trailer was standing a few feet from him, and in another second the F. B. I. man had been able to give his subordinate a signal.

"He knows now that Arnold will take over, but that he's to stick for a few minutes more," my escort said. "But I'd like to know to whom that Hitler message is going."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The Heart Murmur

THE QUESTION of heart murmurs does not usually disturb the calm of our civil life, but in war time when the draft boards examine any large group of young people a certain number are found to have "a systolic murmur of the heart." They hadn't the slighest idea they had it before the medical examiner turned it up and in fact didn't have any notion they had anything the matter with their hearts and imagined they were in perfect health. Some of them write me in utter bewilderment wanting to know what it is all about.

These letters take me back to a dark night in my own life, when I was a medical student, and I was sitting up in my room reading Cabot's Physical Diagnosis and I had a brand new stethescope and something in the text of the book prompted me to put the stethescope on the apex of my own heart. And there I heard a murmur. Then for a second or two my heart entirely stopped beating so I couldn't hear it. When it resumed its activities I listened again and sure enough I was certain it was a murmur.

Well, I put the stethoscope down and faced death. A sob came into my throat to think of one so young, so full of promise passing from this bright world to the realms of shade. I planned an extremely affecting funeral. But time wore on and I resumed my duties and more or less got used to the idea.

And that, my children, was nearly forty years ago and the funeral hasn't taken place yet, and I'm still going strong. I don't examine my own heart as often as I used to, but when I do I cannot detect any murmurs in it. Perhaps my technique has become more refined and I don't call just any old sound a murmur. And perhaps that is the trouble with some of the medical examiners of the draft boards—they do call any old sound a murmur.

Still another and more authentic experience comes to mind. During the last unpleasantness, a neighbor of mine came to me in great distress because the medical examiner of the army had found a heart murmur on him, and he was desperately anxious to get into the service. I was a medical officer and I examined him and found he did indeed have a murmur. But I didn't think it would interfere with his activities and managed to get him into the ground forces of an aviation unit.

Well, I hadn't seen him for a long while until the other day and I said—"How is that heart murmur?"—and he said, "That is worth $8,000 a year to me, insurance compensation, and I feel fine." And he has been carrying that murmur, my friend, for over twenty-five years to my positive knowledge.

So I can't take these heart murmurs too seriously.

I am confirmed in this by a report of the examination of Harvard College students. Of 2,858 of these who had an especial heart examination, 350 (12%) were found to have a systolic heart murmur. In 246 the murmur was classified as functional. One hundred twenty seven students (4%) had heart murmurs of such intensity that the examiner was unwilling to classify them as functional. A good many of these were followed for two to four years, and it was never possible to make a positive diagnosis of organic heart disease, nor did it interfere in any way with their activities.

The fact is a systolic murmur alone does not mean anything. The important findings to throw light on the murmur are the size of the heart, the rhythm of the pulse, etc. (A systolic murmur means one timed as taking place during the contraction period of the heart. A diastolic murmur heard between beats is more serious.

I suppose 80% of all practicing physicians could detect a frank heart murmur. But there are lots of heart sounds that are in and between and I don't suppose 10% of practicing physicians could certainly determine those. But the safe thing for the army is to call them murmurs and reject them. And those are the ones who write me troubled letters.

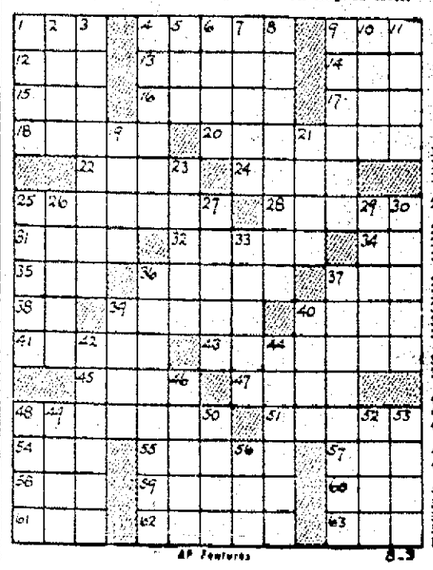
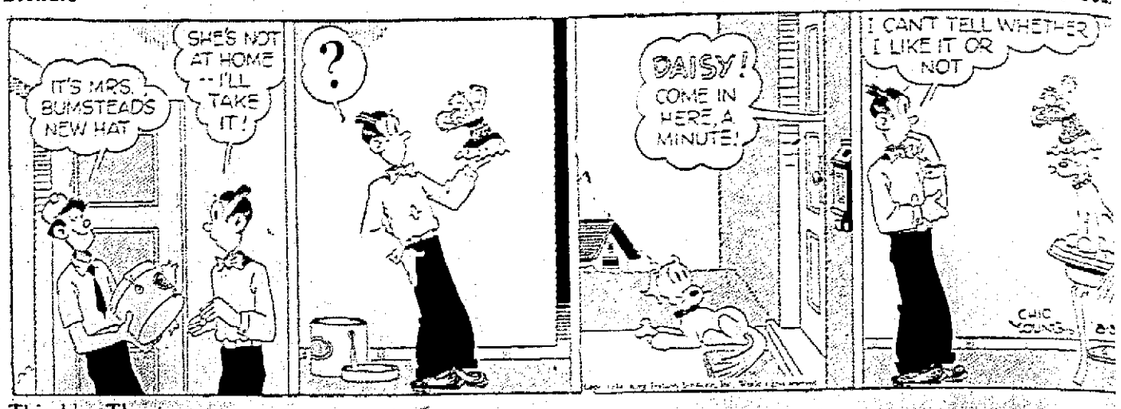
Solution Of Yesterday's Puzzle



Gasoline Alley By Frank King

HANK! YOU KONKED ME ON THE HEAD LAST NIGHT.
BUT WAIT, YOU WERE WALKIN' IN YOUR SLEEP.
THAT'S PRECISELY IT. I CAME OUT HERE TO REST. I JUST CAN'T HAVE ANYTHING INTERFERE WITH MY SLEEP.
BUT YOU HAD A COUPLE OF KNIVES! I HAD TO DO SOMETHING
THAT'S JUST A PECULIARITY OF MINE — KNIVES, CLUBS, PITCHFORKS — ANYTHING SHARP AND DEADLY. I WOULDN'T WANT TO COMMIT SOME TERRIBLE ATTACK AGAINST MY FAMILY. YOU SEE HOW I LIKE TO LIVE ALONE!

Blondie By Chic Young



IT'S MRS. BUMSTEAD'S NEW HAT
SHE'S NOT AT HOME -- I'LL TAKE IT!
DAISY! COME IN HERE, A MINUTE!
I CAN'T TELL WHETHER I LIKE IT OR NOT CHIC YOUNG

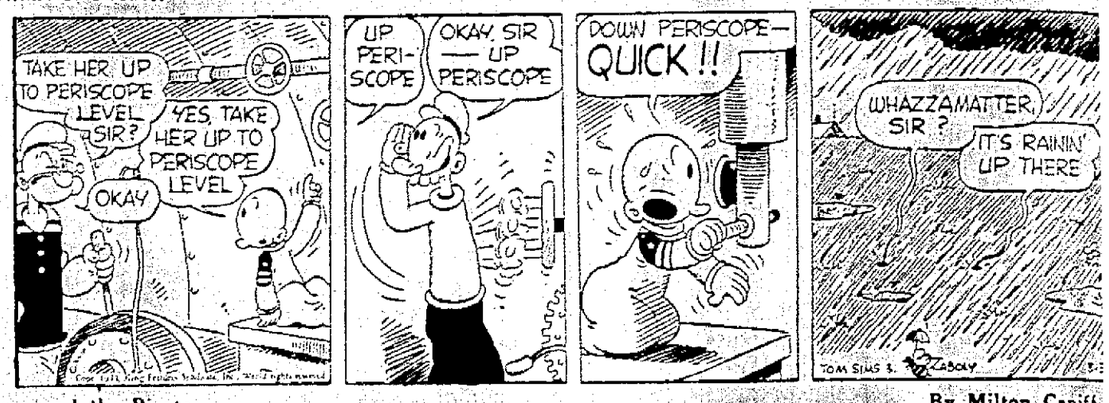
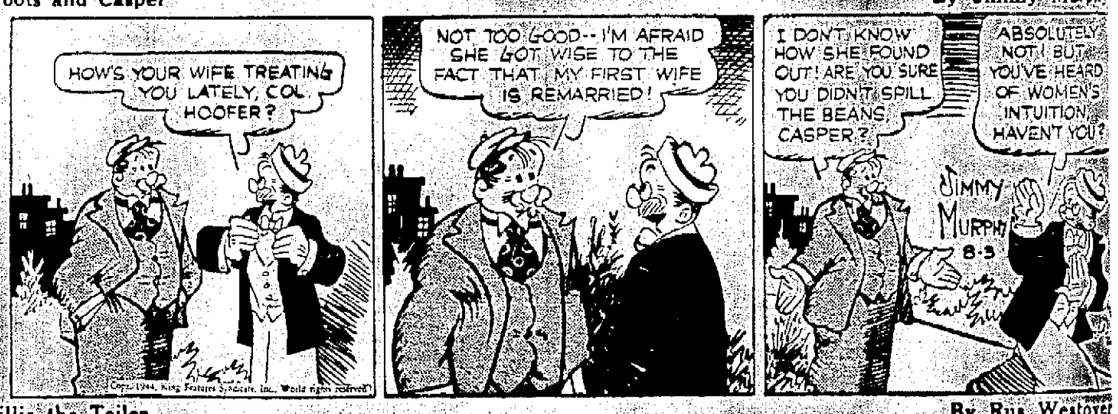
Thimble Theater



Terry and the Pirates By Milton Caniff

SURE, BRIGADIER PRESSET — ONE OF THE BEST OF THE BRITISH JUNGLE FIGHTERS — HE'S JUST WAITING FOR AN AIRPLANE...GOT LOTS OF TIME!
HEY — THAT'S A GOOD CHANCE... THANKS, TERRY!
BRIGADIER PRESSET: —THE BRITISH JUNGLE FIGHTER — WITH PLENTY OF TIME ON HIS HANDS!
HEY — LET'S GRAB THAT!
WILL YOU SIGN MY SHORT SHORTER, BILL, TOO, SIR?

Toots and Casper By Jimmy Murphy



HOW'S YOUR WIFE TREATING YOU LATELY, COL. HOOFER?
NOT TOO GOOD -- I'M AFRAID SHE GOT WISE TO THE FACT THAT MY FIRST WIFE IS REMARRIED!
I DON'T KNOW HOW SHE FOUND OUT! ARE YOU SURE YOU DIDN'T SPILL THE BEANS, CASPER?
ABSOLUTELY NOT! BUT YOU'VE HEARD OF WOMEN'S INTUITION, HAVEN'T YOU?
JIMMY MURPHY 8-3

Tillie the Toiler By Rus Westover

HAL MUST HAVE BEEN HERE AND CHANGED THE WHITE SUIT FOR HIS UNIFORM
BUT, WHY SHOULD HE GO AWAY AGAIN?
WITH THIS UNIFORM ON, I WON'T GET CAUGHT AND I CAN DO A LITTLE SPYING
LET'S SEE YOUR PASS, SOLDIER
GOSH, I MUST HAVE LOST IT
I MADE AN MISTAKE — MA BE I CAN GET THAT WHITE SUIT BACK

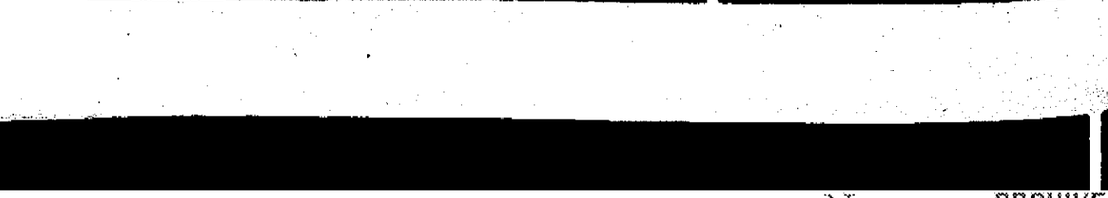
Annie Rooney By Darrell McClure

—WE'D BETTER TAKE IT ON THE LAM— THERE'S A WHOLE ARMY OF DICKS SCATTERED ALONG THE CANAL!!
YOU SOUND AS YELLOW AS A CARLOAD OF GRAPEFRUIT — IF WE CAN WIPE OUT REMBRANDT AN' THAT NOSY KID, WE'RE OKAY —
THEY HAVE THE EVIDENCE THAT CAN SEND US ALL TO THE HOT SEAT, UNLESS WE GET THEM FIRST!
GEE, ZERO, EVERYTHING LOOKS QUIET AN' PEACEFUL, BUT IT AIN'T — 'CAUSE MR. REMBRANDT HAS GUARDS WITH GUNS, WATCHIN' ALL NIGHT LONG
DARRELL McCLURE

The Gumps By Gus Edson



LET'S BE SENSIBLE. THERE'S NO SUCH THING AS A GHOST.
ARE YOU TALKING TO CONVINCE US OR YOURSELF?!
